—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, Justice of the Supreme Court, experienced difficulty in stepping up to his seat on Monday. Assistance was necessary.

Yesterday he resigned his position of great honor, bowing to Old Time, that will not be thwarted.

Justice Holmes, now in his ninety-second year, represents the highest type of American citizenship, justice and legal knowledge.

President Hoover's letter to the Justice saying, "No appreciation I could express would even feebly represent the gratitude of the American people for your life of public service," expresses the feeling of all Americans.

APPOINTED to the Supreme bench by Theodore Roosevelt 30 years ago, Justice Holmes had served his country courageously in the Civil War. He has bullet marks to show for that service.

He has interpreted the Constitution of the United States for the people that created the Constitution and live under it, not for any accumulation of dollars, gathered in its shadow.

LONG AGO a Greek philosopher of Justice Holmes' age, leaving his class, stumbled, fell, went home and took his life.

The great mind of our supreme bench is more philosophical than that Greek ancient. Obeying time's commands, he retires, but will live on, loved and honored by his country.

MR. LITCHFIELD, who built the great airship Akron and is building another air giant, believes such ships will presently be engaged in carrying passengers across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, at 75 or 100 miles an hour, in place of the present 25 miles by steamer, the Atlantic round trip made in four to five days, with safety greater than by steamship.

MR. KETTERING, chief engineer of General Motors, discussing the value of the dirigible with Mr. Litchfield and Mr. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet company, yesterday observed that water is 600 times heavier than air, which most of us forget with a proportionate resistance to moving bodies. Try moving your hand through the water in your tub, then through the air.

A steamship as big as the Akron requires 40 or 50 thousand horsepower to make 25 miles an hour. The Akron, more than three times as fast, needs only 4,500 horsepower.

As you know, the use of power increases geometrically as speed increases.

President Hoover and Congress have rendered great public service, making it possible to create these giant experimental ships, biggest in the world.

AN INTERESTING CAMPAIGN this year will be that of David S. Ingalls, the young assistant Secretary of the Navy in charge of flying, for Governor of Ohio.

Ohio should be proud to nominate him and the citizens to vote for him. Mr. Ingalls, a nephew of William Howard Taft, uses airplanes as you would use taxis or street cars, traveling always by air, ever since he established himself as the Navy's first combat ace in the big war.

MR. INGALLS' "STABLE" consists of three airplanes, his personal property. And his amusement is helping inventors with flying ideas to develop them.

Ohio voters will have the pleasure of seeing the young candidate for Governor go through air stunts above the political meeting before he comes down to talk to them.

He fought in the air for this country at the age of 18, and immediately had command of his squadron.

IF ANYBODY SAYS to a man "You drive like a woman," let him answer "I am proud of it." Statistics compiled by the American Automobile Association prove that women are much safer automobile drivers than men.

This is not surprising. Women are safer in everything, safer to trust with your secrets or your money, safer as friends, a safer reliance for the little baby crawling on the floor or the old man in need of unselfish devotion.

"Last at the cross and first at the tomb," women represent devotion and service, men activity and conceit.

THIS COLUMN has remarked occasionally since 1918 that sooner or later the United States would begin paying for the war, and the process would not be pleasant.

Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, to meet a $137,000,000 emergency in his state, calls for income taxes doubled, half of the increase retroactive for 1931. Between the nation and the state, increased taxes will make the prosperous in America realize that war does not pay. The little people have realized it since 1929.

RICH AND POOR will be grateful to Dr. William J. O'Shea, superintendent of New York public schools, for his statement that feeding the stomach comes ahead of feeding the mind. Dr. O'Shea asks:

"What is the use of teaching arithmetic, geography, history or anything else to children who are hungry or without coats?"

MISS MARY LEWIS

Mary, who is 23, and lives at 5735 Kentucky avenue, noticed a strange man following her on Walnut street near Maryland avenue. She started to run, but the man seized her coat, struck her, snatched the purse and ran.

Miss Lewis gave chase, attempting to strike him with her umbrella, but he escaped.

Lone Thug Holds Up Waitress, Gets $50

An armed robber early today forced Anna Smarz, Ellsworth avenue, waitress in Myers restaurant, at 302 South St. Clair street, to surrender $50, the night's receipts.

Hailed by Miss Smarz, a passing patrolman fired one shot into the air to attract the attention of the radio car, which cruised the district, without trace of the robber.

MELLON DEFIES LAW, PATMAN CHARGES

Says U. S. Allows Secretary To Ride 'Rough Shod' Over Government Statutes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A charge the Justice Department has let Secretary Mellon "run rough shod" over federal laws was made before the House Judiciary Committee today by Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texas, but was stricken out of the record on the suggestion of Chairman Sumners.

Patman was testifying on his resolution seeking impeachment of the veteran Treasury head for "high crimes and misdemeanors." Representative Michener, Michigan Republican, asked at one point why he had not taken his charges to the Justice Department.

The Texan replied:

"Since the department has let him run rough shod over law, as I believe, what reason would I have to expect it would make a criminal prosecution?"

SEES MALFEASANCE

Another Democrat, Representative Oliver, of New York, requested that the statement be stricken from the record.

Patman said he expected to show malfeasance on the part of the Secretary before he concluded. He asserted:

"I not only allege he has been indirectly concerned in carrying on business, but I believe I can prove that he has directly concerned himself in carrying on that business."

Patman said this was forbidden by federal laws. He seeks Mellon's impeachment on the ground he has violated this statute.

As Patman mentioned various firms with which he said Mellon was connected, Alexander W. Gregg, representing the Treasury Secretary, agreed that Mellon was a minority stockholder in some of the corporations named by the Texan, but added:

"The fact that he owns stock in companies that carry on trade with ships—I concede that for the record now."

Several committee members informally expressed the opinion

Mellon Pleads Before House For Tax Boost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Determined to alter the administration tax increase plan, Democrats in control of the House paid special heed today as Secretary Mellon expounded it to the Ways and Means Committee.

The Treasury chief called the raising of more revenue imperative to maintain governmental credit as well as to meet running expenses. He detailed anew the proposals for higher income levies all along the line, as well as for varied sales taxes.

Before the proceedings got under way, Mellon—wearing a dark gray suit and coughing slightly—shook hands with Chairman Collier. Then he started to read his prepared statement, but changed his mind and requested permission for Undersecretary Mills to do the reading while he sat in a big overstuffed leather chair nearby. The committee and audience, which had a sprinkling of women, listened attentively.

Representative McCormack suggested to Mills a liquor tax would be the easiest to collect and would produce the most money. Mills smiled and said:

"Yes, only the Constitution and Congress stand in the way."

He added liquor taxes produced $483,000,000 in 1919.

Mellon's statement asserted:

"We are in the midst of a grave emergency. It is essential to raise additional revenue, not just to cover current expenditures but to maintain unimpaired the credit of the United States government.

"The losses that will be suffered by every individual and every industry through a continuation of the depression will exceed many times over the amounts to be contributed in additional taxes."

Mellon reviewed the decline of big incomes during the past two years and defended his plan to bring in 1,700,000 additional taxpayers by lowering the income tax exemptions.

Nude March Threat Made by Women

BRISBANE, Australia, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The unemployed women of Brisbane have threatened that unless the state minister of labor and industry agrees to discuss their problems with them they will march through the streets of the city nude.

State police have been instructed to take every precaution, but the number of jobless women is so great authorities doubt whether they would be able to arrest all of them if they carried out their threat.

$500,000 ASKED OF COUNTY FOR JOB RELIEF

Business Men Petition Commissioners, Point to Dwindling Welfare Fund

Describing relief measures as imperative to save many from starving, more than a score of business and industrial leaders today appealed to the County Commissioners for a $500,000 appropriation to the Welfare Fund.

This sum, they pointed out, will make available $800,000 conditional gifts and enable the joint drive of the Welfare Fund and Allegheny County Emergency Association to attain its goal of $5,981,000.

A petition signed by leaders in the welfare campaign, including the Mellons, was presented to the Commissioners by a committee.

$6,000,000 BUDGETS

The total budget of the 76 organizations participating in the Welfare Fund is $2,981,000, while the Emergency Association program calls for $3,000,000, the Commissioners were informed.

The amount raised to date totals $4,681,000, the petition sets forth. This sum, in view of present conditions, is a "splendid response from all classes," the petitioners assert, and would be allowed to stand but for the fact that "the full amount originally sought is imperatively needed to prevent suffering—even starvation—among our fellow citizens."

PETITION SIGNERS

The petition included signatures of Frank R. Phillips, W. L. Mellon, A. K. Oliver, F. F. Brooks, Edgar J. Kaufmann, Thomas A. Dunn, John F. Casey, Sr., Irvin F. Lehman, John G. Frazer, H. C. RESCUERS LOSE LIFE RACE

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Jan. 13.—(INS.)—Death late today won a feverish race with rescue workers, who fought valiantly for hours to extricate Edward Popolski, 20, of Johnson City, trapped by a fall of coal and debris during the night.

Popolski is known to be dead, workers at the mine said this afternoon. His body will be removed by tonight, they expect. A corps of workers this afternoon was resorting to heavy timbering to prevent further slides, which had handicapped rescue work since Popolski's entombment.

While 1,500 miners huddled in the rain outside, rescue workers, led by the father of the entombed youth, three times uncovered his head and shoulder, only to race for safety before new falls.

When Popolski's head was uncovered for the third time this morning, a priest administered the last sacraments of the church to the trapped youth.

Death Pact Balked, Girl Shoots Herself

JOSEPHINE SPIESS, 20 . . . . YOUNG FRIENDS AWAITED HER

"I'm going to change my dress." Miss Spiess said to three friends at 701 Ridge avenue, North Side, last night as she left the room to shoot herself in the next one because she had no money, couldn't pay her room rent. Her condition was considered grave.

MISS GERALDINE WALKER

Miss Walker, 18, roommate, who with two visiting boys—19 and 21—is held as a material witness in her chum's shooting.

No Money to Pay Rent, Despondency Believed Cause

Balked in her attempt to enter into a suicide pact with her chum, police said, Josephine Spiess, alias Steiner, 20, a British subject, of 701 Ridge avenue, was near death in Allegheny General Hospital today from her second attempt at suicide in two months.

Geraldine Walker, 17, her roommate, told homicide detectives, they reported, that Miss Spiess had urged her several weeks ago to join her in a suicide agreement but she had refused. Two months ago, Miss Walker said, she had prevented her friend from ending her life by gas.

To the Spiess girl's proposal that they die together, Miss Walker said she replied:

"Don't be silly. I am not ready to die and neither are you."

Leaving a group with whom she was playing cards in her room last night, ostensibly to change her dress, she shot herself. To her roommate she murmured:

"So long Gerry, I'm dying."

In Morals Court Miss Walker testified she was unable to account for her chum's suicide attempt.

Detectives testified Miss Spiess had told them she was despondent because she didn't have $18 to pay her room rent.

Miss Walker, Paul Marko, 19, of New Alexandria, and Charles Martin, 21, of Crabtree, Westmoreland County, were turned over to detectives for questioning.

Detectives learned that Miss Spiess, born in Basle, Switzerland, of British parents, entered the United States nearly four years ago. She had no fear of deportation, she told detectives. Immigration authorities said there was no intention to send her out of the United States.

GIRL ALONE IN HOME, STABBED

Convict Under Heavy Guard; Warden Ashe Hurrying to Bellefonte From Pittsburgh

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, PA., Jan. 13.—Overpowered while at home alone on the grounds of the Rockview Penitentiary, Betty Hickock, 18-year-old daughter of Dr. A. L. Hickock, prison psychiatrist, was attacked and stabbed to death today by a Negro convict employed in the home, according to state police.

The girl was surprised, police believed, while in the bathroom of her home and left dead on the floor with her throat slashed.

The Negro was captured soon after the murder was discovered. Prison officials refused to disclose his name or to give out details of the killing.

NEGRO RUSHED TO CELL

The Negro under heavy guard was rushed to a cell in the penitentiary. He was said by state police to be one of Dr. Hickock's patients and to have been employed mornings in the Hickock home.

Warden Stanley P. Ashe, summoned here from the Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh, was speeding here late today.

Coroner W. R. Heaton, of Center County, prepared to hold an inquest. County Detective Leo Boden joined the prison authorities and state police in making an investigation.

Clamping down the lid on all developments, the prison officials announced that no statement would be made "until after the inquest."

State police of the Troop H sub-station at Rockview hastened to the scene. They reported learning that while other members of the family were ordinarily at home, Betty was alone this morning.

Dr. Hickock had charge of all mental patients among the prisoners.

College or Court Post Rumored for Coolidge

BOSTON, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—The limelight today was focused again on former President Calvin Coolidge as a possible candidate for two positions—the United States Supreme bench or the presidency of his alma mater, Amherst College.

The sudden resignation of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes from the Supreme Court and of Dr. Arthur S. Pease, president at Amherst College, turned much speculation upon the former President's future plans.

The ex-President was in New York today, but friends in Northampton, his home town, pointed out he has expressed his desire for a post in which he would not be called upon to capitalize his prestige.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the names of Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, and Senator William E. Borah, headed a long list reported under consideration by President Hoover. Other names reported under consideration were Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana; John W. Davis, of New York, and Attorney General William D. Mitchell.

Football Player to Sue University for Slander

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Declaring he was unable to obtain an apology from officials of the University of Southern California for accusing him of disloyalty, William Hawkins, substitute center of the Trojan football squad, has quit the university to carry to court his demand for vindication.

Richard H. Cantillon, an attorney, said he would charge either false imprisonment, or slander. The smallest possible damages will be sought, Cantillon said, vindication alone being the purpose of the suit.

Hawkins submitted to confinement in a mountain cabin for three weeks prior to the U. S. C.-Notre Dame game, guarded by detectives, when it was believed by coaches of the football team he might be giving Trojan plays to the Notre Dame team.

PARK ASKS HIGH COURT JUDGE BE SENT TO TRY KLINE HERE

MAYOR'S VENUE CHANGE PLEA ANSWERED

Prosecutor Denies Remarks By Gray May Influence Potential Jurors' Minds

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania today received an invitation from District Attorney Andrew T. Park to send one of its justices to Pittsburgh to preside at the trial of Mayor Kline, who, charged with malfeasance in office, has asked for a change of venue.

At the same time Park's office made clear that the Mayor's trial may begin as scheduled on January 18. It was explained that Park's answer to the Mayor's petition having been filed early, the higher court will probably decide the issue in a few days and without oral argument. If its decision is against Kline, Park said the trial would proceed as scheduled.

Park's invitation was contained in his answer to Mayor Kline's petition that the trial be transferred to another county. Assailing the Mayor's argument that he could not obtain an impartial trial in the city of which he is chief executive, Park suggested:

"If your honorable court should be of the opinion that any prejudice exists in the minds of judges of Allegheny County, respondent prays that your honorable court will designate some member of your court to preside at the trial."

DENIES CLAIM

Park's invitation was offered along with his denial of the Mayor's contention that Judge James H. Gray's public criticism of the Kline administration during the last mayoralty campaign had influenced the minds of potential jurors. The District Attorney pointed out that not only had Judge Gray informed him that he would not preside at Kline's trial but that there were 13 other judges available in this county.

This would not be the first time a Supreme Court justice has presided here. In 1892 a justice was called to try cases of treason growing out of the famous Homestead steel strike of 1892.

Park's answer, filed in the Prothonotary's office yesterday was immediately mailed to Philadelphia.

He also denied the other principal point of the Mayor's argument that newspaper publicity had been unfair to the Mayor.

Park added:

"To grant the relief prayed for is tantamount to holding that reliance cannot be placed in the integrity and impartiality of the 14 judges of the court below, nor in the whole body and citizenry of Allegheny County.

"Respondent represents that from a community as large and populous as Allegheny County, there will be no difficulty in obtaining fair and impartial jurors on whom the newspaper comments have made no impression."

He declared that a change "would hinder witnesses, impede and hinder business of the city and involve expenditures of additional large sums of money wholly unnecessary."

DEFENDS PAPERS

Respecting newspaper publicity, Park stated:

"Respondent has no knowledge of any improper or unworthy motives prompting the publicity referred to. The acts of public officials are the subject of proper newspaper comment and most of the cartoons and comment referred to occurred prior to the grand jury investigation and the finding of these indictments. Respondent denies that such publicity has rendered it impossible for petitioners to obtain a fair trial in Allegheny County."

Park termed the public agitation and newspaper accounts as:

"A wholly justifiable and fairly conducted move on the part of public spirited citizens, including the newspapers of the City of Pittsburgh, for a correction of the irregularities existing in said Department of Supplies."

Park refused to agree that political animosity engendered in past political contests, despite Judge Gray's support of the late Judge Richard W. Martin as a mayoralty candidate against Mayor Kline, affected the possibility of an impartial trial.

GANDHI DISCIPLE 'CARRIES ON'

AHMEDABAD, India, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Miss Madeline Slade, once a belle of London society and daughter of a British admiral, made a plea to the nation today to carry on the civil disobedience campaign of Mahatma Gandhi, whose devoted disciple she has been since she renounced the drawing room of Mayfair. She said:

"Now that Gandhi's voice is silenced behind prison walls, it is all the more our sacred duty to carry out his dearest wish—spinning and weaving home-spun."

If Indians had fulfilled this wish previously, she argued, Gandhi would not now be in prison.

WOMAN, MAID FOUND SLAIN

MIDDLEBURG, Va., Jan. 13.—(INS)—Mrs. Spencer Illsley, socially prominent in New York and a winter resident here for some years, was found murdered in her home here today, her head crushed and beaten.

In the same room with Mrs. Illsley was found her maid, a white woman, also dead and showing signs of having been similarly beaten. Both women were in night clothes.

The house was in wild disorder. It had evidently been ransacked. And at first glance police said it was evidently a case of murder and robbery.

The bodies were found by Paul Bowen, a brother of Mrs. Illsley, who had spent the night at an adjoining farm. Sheriff's deputies took charge of the premises, which is in the heart of the so-called "horse country" of Virginia where many wealthy families reside.

ALLEGE MELLON DEFIES LAW

that whether stock ownership constituted participation in trade and commerce would hinge on the participation of the holder in management of such corporations.

Only a few spectators appeared in the big committee room as the group began its consideration of the charges. The man Patman is seeking to impeach was before the House Ways and Means Committee, a little way down the corridor on the same floor, advocating his plan for increased taxes.

LETTER READ

Patman read a letter he said was written in 1929 by Mellon to Senator Reed (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, during a Senate Judiciary Committee investigation, in which the Secretary said he owned stock in the Aluminum Company of America, the Gulf Oil Company and other corporations, but in every case much less than a majority of the voting stocks.

Patman said the law does not specify that stock ownership is an indirect engagement in business but contended that such ownership was rare when the law was enacted.

Patman quoted extensively from a deposition given by Mellon in 1928 in a New York case involving a business combination between the Mellon-owned Aluminum Company and the Canadian Manufacturing and Development, an aluminum concern controlled by the late James B. Duke.

Numerous conversations were mentioned between Mellon and A. V. Davis, president of the Aluminum Company of America. One of these meetings took place in Pittsburgh and Mellon was quoted as saying in "our bank" in which Davis is a director.

TELEGRAM CITED

He said Davis in one instance telegraphed the Duke interests that Mellon and his brother, R. B. Mellon, had expressed a preference for a particular type of agreement relative to power facilities. He also quoted Mellon as stating he had signed an agreement on a train in Canada. He explained:

"The original merger agreement does not bear his signature, but Mellon said later that he was present when it was signed and knew what was in it.

"The Aluminum Company of America has been violating the anti-trust laws for the last 15 years and no effort has been made to stop it."

Mellon was represented by Gregg, youthful former solicitor of the Treasury Internal Revenue Bureau and by D. D. Shepard, Pittsburgh attorney.

P. S. C. BLOCKS PINCHOT ON RATES

Members Fail to Adopt Plan For Standard Charges; Woodruff Offers Proposal

HARRISBURG, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Other issues may come and go, but to Gov. Pinchot the control of public utilities and their rates remains as one of the principal objectives in his political warfare.

His latest sortie, launched in a new quarter yesterday, was checked when the Public Service Commission declined to approve a resolution providing for standardization of domestic electric rates on a reduced basis.

The resolution offered by Commissioner George W. Woodruff, first of Pinchot's appointees, failed of adoption when three commissioners, one less than a majority, voted for it and three others refused to vote. Commissioner Frederaick P. Gruenberg, named by Pinchot last year, and Commissioner J. W. Brown, appointed by Pinchot during his first term, approved the resolution. Commissioners W. D. B. Ainey, S. Ray Shelby and Samuel Walker did not vote.

The resolution, offered by the man who drafted the Pinchot fair rate board bills for the 1931 regular session of the General Assembly, represented Pinchot's initial attempt to force action directly through the commission. His previous attempts to fulfil 1930 campaign pledges for utility control had been made through the Legislature and, more recently, through organization of boroughs to protest against present utility rates.

The Woodruff resolution would have had the commission establish a minimum domestic electric rate of $4.10 for the first 100 kilowatt hours per month. Companies not adopting the rate voluntarily would have been compelled to prove to the commission that higher rates were necessary. A maximum of two and a half cents would have been established for penalties impossible for non-payment of bills within 30 days.

Representatives of 17 Towns to Meet on Rates

Pre-organization meeting of representatives from 17 Monongahela Valley municipalities as whether to join with the Western Pennsylvania Fair Rate Association in its fight on unfair public utility rates is scheduled tonight in the Monongahela Council chamber.

Leaders of varied groups throughout the state leading the attack on excessive gas, electric, water and telephone rates will gather tomorrow in Harrisburg for a conference with Gov. Pinchot. The session has been called by the executive.

Tonight's meeting will be addressed by C. V. Tiers, of Oakmont, author of the fair rate group's constitution, who will explain the objectives and plans.

Teachers' Pay Cuts Opposed by Rule

HARRISBURG, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Dr. James N. Rule, secretary of education, advised against cutting public school teachers' pay before school boards exhaust all other economy measures. He said:

"Teachers are good spenders and for the most part they spend their money for good things. Cutting their wages will reduce the buying capacity of the consumer. It is seldom that a teacher is found to be a waster."

is like putting iron ore into a blast furnace that has no fire.

SOME OF US are richer than we realize, some in good qualities, others in money.

The late Julius Rosenwald had both. His fortune, it is said, amounts to close to $500,000,000. And excepting for what he gave away, he had taken no steps to deprive national or state government of its share through inheritance tax.

THE DIFFERENCE between trained fighters, unprepared, and the untrained, is shown in a recent defeat for Japan by China. The Japanese company nearly wiped out, numbered 60 men. The Chinese that killed all but 10 of them numbered 5,000, or nearly 100 to 1.

The population of China is only about six times that of Japan, and the south of China hates the north of China and vice versa, worse than either hate the Japanese.

ASK ROSSITER REHEARING

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—United States Attorney Louis F. Graham, of the Western District of Pennsylvania, today filed a petition with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, asking a rehearing be granted in the case of Attorney Samuel Y. Rossiter of Erie, whose conviction in the District Court as a defendant in the prisoner "substitution" case was set aside last month by the Circuit Court.

The petition, prepared by Attorney Graham and his first assistant, James I. Marsh, who represented the government in the prosecution of the case against Rossiter and others, in the District Court, urged that the mandate of the Circuit Court be stayed pending disposition of the petition.

Rossiter, Joseph Donovan, an automobile dealer, and Lester Beals, all of Erie, were convicted March 21, 1931, a jury in the District Court finding they conspired to substitute James Patrone in place of Stanley Wells, a reputed wealthy Canadian bootlegger.

SENATE DELAYS QUIZ ON LOAN 'PRESSURE'

State Department Coercion Angle Held Up in Probe Of Foreign Bond Sales

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Senatorial inquiry into the State Department's reasons for bringing pressure to bear on New York bankers to make a loan to Colombia which they were reluctant to make was postponed today until tomorrow.

With department officials ready to take the witness stand, Senator Johnson (Rep.) of California, instigator of the foreign securities investigation, asked a postponement on the ground that several senators were absent and there was a mass of documents to peruse before questioning State Department officials.

State Department officials called were Assistant Secretary Francis White, Freeman Matthews, chief of the Latin-American division, and Herbert Feis, economic adviser.

The committee yesterday unearthed an astounding situation in which the American Department of State acted a "commercial agent in arranging a $4,000,000 loan to the Republic of Colombia.

The testimony was pried from W. W. Lancaster, attorney for the National City Bank of New York, one of the banking institutions making the loan.

Stirred by the revelation, the State Department issued a statement saying its sole purpose in intervening in the negotiations was the "fostering of friendly relations."

President Olaya had insisted that Colombia was entitled to the loan because it had restored the valuable Barco oil concession to the Gulf Oil Company, a Mellon subsidiary.

Lancaster said that Francis White, head of the Latin American division of the State Department, told him that Olaya said his country had restored the oil concession because it wanted the $4,000,000 credit.

Peruvian Paper Criticizes Honesty of U. S. Officials

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The newspaper El Comercio, in a bitter editorial today, said the disclosures on Latin-American loans made before the Senate Finance Committee in Washington revealed that relatives of former President Leguia had received huge commissions for promoting loans.

While the revelations are painful to Peru, the paper said, they also are painful to the United States, because they "reveal a lack of honesty in the American business men who handled the dark loans affair and a lack of honesty in American officials who, being aware that these were dangerous operations, favored the loan's floating, inducing their fellow citizens to trust in bad business."

El Comercio added that the Senate's investigation will have the healthy effect of finding out who was responsible for the transaction and that American bondholders will realize they were tricked by their own fellow citizens, who, it was said, induced them to participate in credit operations doomed to failure.

Kline Venue Change Plea Parallels Matt Quay's

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today having filed his answer to Mayor Kline's petition for a change of venue in his forthcoming trial, a parallel was noted in the Mayor's petition and that of the late Senator Matthew S. Quay, famed political leader of Pennsylvania, who was indicted in Philadelphia 32 years ago.

Quay, indicted on a charge of conspiracy to use a Philadelphia bank's money for purchase of stocks, asked the Supreme Court for a change of venue.

The Senator's petition because of points involved in his indictment, set forth several more reasons than the Mayor's, but two principal arguments in the Mayor's petition were broadly also used by Quay. The charge against Mayor Kline is malfeasance in office.

Quay contended a Philadelphia jurist, for political reasons, instigated the prosecution.

Mayor Kline pointed out that Judge James H. Gray, supporting the late independent Judge Richard W. Martin in the last mayoralty campaign, criticized Kline and his administration.

Quay argued Philadelphia newspapers published misstatements concerning him and thereby created public prejudice among potential jurors.

A great share of Kline's petition was given over to allegations that the Pittsburgh newspapers published statements unfair to the Mayor.

Both defendants as a matter of course asked for changes of venue grounds that they could not obtain impartial trials in the counties in which they had been indicted.

Quay's petition was refused.

String on Bacon Sends Truck Driver to Jail

A piece of string led to Joseph Gayda's arrest today. Gayda, 35, driver of a bakery truck, admitted in Penn Avenue Police Court that when he made his daily delivery to Mrs. R. Lucask's store at 3025 Pulaski way, he decided to appropriate a choice piece of bacon on the counter.

But Mrs. Lucask, trying to solve petty thievery of the last few weeks, had tied the bacon to a string and attached the string to a shelf.

She and relatives, in hiding, rushed into the store and caught Bayda in the act. He admitted previous thefts and with his helper, Leonard Miller, 21, of Pulaski way, was held for investigation.

Public Aid for Police Held Nation's Hope

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The American people were warned today by August Vollmer that if they don't give the police proper support they will "break down their only defense against the criminal element."

The Berkeley (Cal.) chief of police and professor of police administration at the University of California, in a letter made public by the National Retirement Club for Firemen and Policemen, said:

"No group of men can keep its morale unimpaired indefinitely under such brutally unfair treatment as has been given the police, and a policeman whose morale is bad is a menace to the community.

"But what does the average policeman get? He is denounced by the public, criticized by preachers, ridiculed in the movies, berated by newspapers, and often unsupported by prosecuting officers and judges."

HAWAIIAN LEGISLATURE TO ACT ON CRISIS IN EXTRA SESSION

TOURISTS SHUN STRIFE-TORN ISLAND

Plans Speeded for Trial Of Society Woman, 3 Navy Men in Native Killing

HONOLULU, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A request for a special session of the territorial Legislature to consider Honolulu's crime situation and the sensational murder case which culminated it has been decided upon by Legislative conferees.

While they prepared to present their recommendation to Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, cancellations of tourist reservations for the winter social season just starting were received by Honolulu hotel men. Commercial leaders forecast a flood of cancellations would result from publicity following the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, one of five men accused of attacking the wife of a naval officer.

Rumors the Navy would refuse to surrender three naval men and a society matron accused of slaying Kahahawai were set at rest by announcement from Washington that they will be turned over to civil courts on demand.

SPEED TRIAL PLANS

Plans were speeded for the the murder trial of the accused, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society leader and mother of the attacked woman; her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones. The prosecution already has taken depositions of 23 witnesses.

The special legislative session, agreed upon as urged by conferees of the Hawaiian Senate and House yesterday, may result in reorganization of Honolulu's severely criticized police department.

DENIES HOUSE CHARGE

Charges before a House subcommittee in Washington that the territorial judge seemingly gave the jury a "thinly veiled instruction to acquit" the five men tried on charges of attacking Mrs. Thomas H. Massie were denied by the prosecutor.

The jury disagreed, six to six, and the defendants were reporting daily, awaiting retrial, when Kahahawai was abducted from the courtroom last Friday and shot to death.

MOTHER ILL ON SHIP

Meanwhile Mrs. Fortescue was reported virtually confined to her bed aboard the receiving ship Alton at Pearl Harbor where the defendants are held by naval authorities.

Defense attorneys said she was worrying over the condition of her husband, who is ill in New York, so much that she is almost continually in tears.

One of the staff, Montgomery Winn, said it was for the society matron that he would seek the only delay the defense desires. He said he wants the case postponed until her husband may be with her.

TORNADO KILLS 3 IN SOUTH

Weather lines of the nation were drawn irregularly today, with tornadoes claiming a toll of life and property in the South and blizzards whistling through the Rocky Mountain region.

Three persons were killed and more than 100 injured by storms in Alabama and Mississippi. They followed tornadoes which killed two persons and injured 17 in Southeast Texas.

Heavy rains swelled tributaries of the lower Mississippi River to a menacing stage and bogged country roads. Blocked by an ice jam, the San Juan River threatened to flood the northern Navajo Indian agency at Shiprock, N. M.

A gale which sped through Boulder Canyon uncroofed buildings and blew away tents in Boulder City, government headquarters of workers on the Hoover Dam project. One man was missing. Officials estimated the damage at $10,000.

Northwestern North Dakota was hit by a blizzard residents described as the most severe in two years. It was zero in Minot.

Hoover's Grandson Cheerful in Illness

Polish Revolters Get Prison Terms

Mrs. Caraway Victor; First Woman Elected To U. S. Senate Seat

Widow of Arkansan Easy Winner With No Campaign

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—A mother whose life largely was concerned with domestic affairs until two months ago will serve as the first woman ever elected to the United States Senate.

Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, widow of Arkansas' junior Senator, Thaddeus H. Caraway, yesterday defeated two "Independent" candidates in a special election to achieve the distinction.

She will fill out her husband's unexpired term.

Returns from more than two-thirds of the counties gave her 14,121 votes against 436 for Sam D. Carson, self-styled "dirt farmer," and 925 for Rex R. Floyd, son of a former congressman.

MADE NO CAMPAIGN

Mrs. Caraway made no campaign. She remained in Washington, serving in the Senate under a temporary appointment from Gov. Harry Parnell, while women's clubs and Democratic leaders worked in her behalf.

The vote was small because of rain that fell over the state throughout the day and the fact Mrs. Caraway's election was regarded as certain. Her nomination by the Democratic State Central Committee was equivalent to election.

The election was largely a women's affair. They served without pay as election officials in almost all counties because depleted finances threatened otherwise to prevent an election. They also probably turned in more votes than the men, election officials said.

SERVES UNTIL 1933

A few counties held no election despite offers of women to volunteer their services, and in all the others only a few polling places were established in strategic locations.

Mrs. Caraway will serve until March, 1933. Her friends expect she will then retire from politics, which she entered after the death of her husband.

Mrs. Caraway was born on a Tennessee farm and is the mother of three boys.

Her appointment by the Governor to serve pending the special election gave her the distinction of being the first woman to sit as a regular member of the Senate. Before her, Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton, of Cartersville, Ga., had served for a day under an honorary appointment.

Farrell Quits Steel Presidency to Make Way for Younger Men

Countryless Man Kept Chained In Hold of Ship

ST. JOHN, N. B., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Chained in the hold of a ship for more than a month, Cecil James Scott, unwanted in two countries, awaits a judgment apparently without precedent.

Two months ago Scott, a Negro, was deported by Canadian authorities to his homeland, Bermuda. Bermuda authorities refused to accept him and he returned in the same ship. Having previously been deported from the Dominion, he was refused re-admission and now the captain and immigration officials are wondering what they shall do with him.

Worked as Laborer Here, Then Formed Braddock Firm

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, today made public his decision to retire from his position April 18.

He declared he resolved on this step so his successor could "establish the management of the corporation upon a more permanent foundation composed of younger men."

Mr. Farrell

Farrell's public announcement came just 21 years and two days after his election as president of the corporation. He joined the organization about 50 years ago, after he started work at 16 in the steel industry as a boy in a steel wire mill at New Haven, Conn.

FORMED BRADDOCK FIRM

Farrell, after working as a laborer in the Pittsburgh Wire Company, became its manager. Later he formed a company at Braddock, Pa., which became part of the American Steel and Wire Company of U. S. Steel Corporation subsidiary.

After that his rise in the steel industry was rapid. In 1911 he succeeded W. E. Corey as president of the corporation.

SUCCESSOR UNNAMED

No successor to Farrell has yet been announced.

Farrell, who is 69, will remain as a member of the board of directors of the corporation, he said.

The annual meeting of the corporation is scheduled for April 18, when Farrell's resignation will be acted upon. A new president probably will be decided on by the directors before then.

Last year the stockholders' meeting voted to retire automatically officials and employes at the age of 70. Farrell's resignation was made public more than a year before he would have been retired under that plan.

Farrell was one of the industrial leaders during the past few years opposed to wage cutting. However, the corporation last October put into effect a 10 per cent wage reduction.

SCORED PRICE CUTTING

Last summer Farrell provoked much comment in the industry by his statement that "the most diabolical situation" had been created in the industry because of price cutting. He warned against the evil effects he foresaw from this policy.

Optimism marked the most recent interview Farrell gave on the economic situation. He said:

"In my life I have witnessed a number of major depressions. In each one the public believed we would never recover, but we did.

"And, while I cannot venture to say when we will emerge from this one, there is no doubt that we will come out of it stronger and better than before."

5 ARMED MEN ROB PAIR ON HIGHWAY

Block Road With Stolen Car, Force Man, Woman From Machine, Then Flee

Police today were seeking five armed men suspected of more than a dozen robberies throughout the East Boroughs within the last two weeks, after they are alleged to have held up and robbed T. D. Carbane, salesman, of 5624 Penn avenue, and a woman companion, of more than $250 in money and jewelry in the William Penn highway near Turtle Creek last night.

USE STOLEN AUTO

According to police, the men, riding in an automobile stolen in a Schenley Park holdup two weeks ago, blocked the highway with their machine and forced Carbane and his companion from their auto. They took $200, jewelry and a hat from Carbane. The woman was forced to hand over her purse and a ring.

Four men, arrested in an auto at Thirty-fourth street and Penn avenue early today, admitted in Penn Avenue Police Court they had intended to hijack a loaded truck of the Atlantic and Pacific stores, which was due at the nearby warehouse.

FIND POLICE BADGE

Patrolmen Joseph Lynch and Dan Owens, of a radio car, who arrested the men because of their suspicious actions, testified they found in the auto a constable's badge, a revolver, a police mace and whistle.

The prisoners were turned over to detectives, who will question them concerning the theft of 150 cases of whisky from a North Side garage a few days ago. The men are listed as Benedict Scazy, 21, of Millvale; Robert Whalen, 32, of Cremo street; William Weiler, 25, of North avenue, and Charles Brillhart, 27, of East Ohio street.

ULSTER HANGS TURK'S AGENT

BELFAST, Ireland, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—Eddie Cullens, American racketeer, was hanged here today for the murder of Achmet Musa, his business associate in the financial exploitation of Zaro Agha, aged Turk.

Only officials were present as Cullens went to his death, which he was reported to have met calmly. The execution was at 8 a. m.

Prosecutors for the crown declared Cullens murdered Musa in a lonely field near Carrick Fergus, Ulster, last September, in a personal feud which grew out of dissension over the division of profits from the American tour of Agha, the Turk, who claimed to be 157 years old.

His last American address was New York. He became associated with the Turk and Musa when the latter two arrived there to begin their tour. He acted as business manager for the group, which included a fourth man.

FRANCE AWAITS NEW PREMIER

PARIS, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—President Paul Doumer today began a series of conferences with the political leaders of France prior to his naming a new premier to form a government to succeed the resigned cabinet of Pierre Laval.

If the President follows custom he will ask Laval to take the helm again. Laval resigned last night of his own will, not being defeated in the Chamber of Deputies, and, in view of this, was quite likely to be given another opportunity to ride out the crisis himself.

He failed yesterday after attempting a master move which was thwarted by Radical Socialists, under Edouard Herriot, whose aid he sought. The Premier offered Herriot the post of foreign minister it was understood, but the Radical declined it.

2 DUNLAP FIRED REINSTATED

The Civil Service Commission today ordered the reinstatement of Bert M. Doty and Miss Mathilda M. Ganley, discharged by Supplies Director W. R. Dunlap because Council cut out their jobs. He was ordered to dismiss two provisional employes to make room for them.

The Commission's letter to Dunlap said:

"In view of the fact that Mr. Doty and Miss Ganley are classified in this office as having a civil service standing as clerks in Grade No. 1, and since you have in your department three provisional appointees in the same classification, the Commission has decided that you must dispense with the services of the provisional employes before removing permanent employes.

"Therefore it will be necessary for you to discontinue two provisional employes now in your employe and reinstate Mr. Doty and Miss Ganley."

Doty and Miss Ganley have been reporting daily since their discharge, the first of the year.

Director Dunlap, after receiving the letter, said he would not reinstate the two employes. He also said there was no Grade 1 rating in his office.

BONES DUG UP NOT CHILD'S

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Bones taken from the basement of the Cincinnati tenement where the body of 6-year-old Marian McLean was found, are not those of a human being.

This was announced today by Dr. W. M. Krogman, anthropologist at the Western Reserve University medical school, who examined them.

The bones were unearthed from the basement of the building yesterday shortly after Charles Bischoff, 45, operator of the tenement, had been indicted for first degree murder in the child's death.

Investigators believed the bones might be those of human beings and that Bischoff might have been responsible for the deaths of other children in Cincinnati who have mysteriously disappeared in recent years.

Relations Formal, Man Named in Will Says

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Relations between Mrs. Lillian I. W. Baker and Benjamin W. Keen, retired Newark (N. J.) lawyer, named as life beneficiary of her $4,000,000 estate, were described by Keen yesterday as nothing but platonic and almost formal.

Keen testified at a hearing of the contest of Mrs. Baker's will brought by May Walker, Jr., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the woman's cousin, on the grounds she was mentally unsound and unduly influenced by Keen.

The latter admitted receiving expensive gifts from Mrs. Baker, but said those he gave her in return were merely flowers, handkerchiefs and other articles of "little intrinsic value."

Keen, who is 55, said he never heard that he was mentioned in the will until notified by Mrs. Baker's attorney. He said he had an income of $20,000 yearly.

Keen denied Mrs. Baker had told him she was unhappy with her husband, the late Dr. George Fales Baker, or had ever spoken of a divorce. Mrs. Baker died in March, 1931, at the age of 72.

Other testimony was introduced to show that Mrs. Baker was mentally sound when she made her will.

HEARST LAUDED FOR SALES TAX INQUIRY AID

Publisher Given Thanks in Congress For Sponsoring Revenue Study in Canada

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—William Randolph Hearst today was lauded by members of Congress for his public service in sending a large group of Senators and Representatives to Canada last November to study the sales tax system there.

A committee representing the Congressional party sent a letter to the publisher declaring that the trip has been of great benefit to them in their studies of public affairs and thanking him for making the expedition possible.

Signing the letter on behalf of the 82 Senators and Representatives who made the trip were Senators William H. King (Dem.) of Utah, and Thomas P. Gore, (Dem.) of Oklahoma, and Representatives Anning S. Prall, (Dem.) of New York; Arthur Free, (Rep.) of California, and Edgar Howard, (Dem.) of Nebraska.

REPORT IN RECORD

This letter, together with a resume of the sojourn in Canada, including complete proceedings of a meeting held by the delegation with high Canadian officials on the sales tax, was inserted in the Congressional Record.

A copy of an invitation from Mr. Hearst to all members of Congress to make the trip also was inserted in the official congressional publication.

The letter sent on behalf of the congressional party follows:

"Dear Mr. Hearst:

"The diminishing revenues and increasing expenditures of the federal government have sharply challenged the attention of the American people to the imperative necessity—if the federal budget is to be balanced—of obtaining additional revenue. It is not an easy task, particularly in a period of depression, to find new sources of revenue, and to enact just and sound measures to replenish depleted treasuries.

CITE TAX PROBLEM

"As a former member of Congress, and as a publisher and student of governmental affairs, you appreciate the heavy responsibilities resting upon the present Congress, and the serious problem with which it is called to deal in providing adequate revenues for the government.

"As we are advised, you believed that study of the revenue laws and the fiscal system of Canada, with special reference to the sales tax, might be of advantage to those charged with the duty of enacting laws to meet the needs of our national government.

"Accordingly, you afforded the members of the two houses of Congress an opportunity, as your guests, to visit the Dominion of Canada, in order that they might obtain first-hand information concerning its revenue laws and fiscal policies, and particularly the workings of the sales tax and its efficacy as a revenue producer.

"Several members of the Senate, and a large number of the members of the House of Representatives, availed themselves of the opportunity, and on the fifteenth of November last, proceeded by special train to Canada, where several days were spent visiting important places, including the cities of Montreal, Ottawa and Quebec.

AID TO GOODWILL

"Conferences were held with leading government officials, bankers, business men and persons in various walks of life, concerning Canada's system of taxation, and sources of revenue, particularly the provisions and workings of the sales tax and the attitude of the people toward the same.

"While the primary purpose of the visit to Canada was to study the sales tax system and to obtain information as to its availability and efficiency in meeting revenue needs of our national government, opportunities were afforded of learning of the progress and development of our neighboring country, its almost limitless resources and its fine and progressive people.

LAUD PUBLIC SPIRIT

"In conclusion, we express our appreciation of the public spirit which impelled you to extend to us an invitation to visit Canada, and for the opportunity which was afforded us to obtain information concerning matters of importance with some of which we will soon be compelled to deal.

"At the end of our journey we met and adopted a resolution thanking you for the opportunity afforded us of visiting our neighboring friends and of obtaining information which we believe will be of value to us in meeting the responsibilities before us. At this meeting the undersigned were appointed a committee to present this communication to you."

Boy Who Killed Father Near Death

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Charged with the murder of his father, Merle Stevens, 18, lay in a hospital here today recovering from a bullet wound he inflicted upon himself after his father was shot.

Merle told police he fired the rifle when his father approached him in a threatening manner after he had made fun of the man for being thrown by a neighbor in a friendly wrestling match.

AUTHOR BACKS HEARST PLAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(Universal)—Five billion dollars spent now on a comprehensive federal government program of public works would restore prosperity, according to a book by former Assemblyman Phelps published today.

The book "Our Defenses Within and Without," gives hearty indorsement to the "prosperity loan" proposed by William Randolph Hearst. Phelps wrote:

"Mr. Hearst advocates now that the only way to alleviate distress of employes for this period of enforced idleness is to authorize a federal bond issue of $5,000,000,000, which undoubtedly would be oversubscribed. I am of the opinion Mr. Hearst is right in his major conclusions.

"A program of public works should include construction of highways, waterways, measures for flood control, water and power conservation. Five billion dollars spent in this manner would restore prosperity. Out of such prosperity the national debt could be reduced and eventually paid."

Reapportionment Quashed in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Congressional reapportionment enacted by the last General Assembly today was ruled unconstitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court, throwing the April primaries back to the old order and perpetuating the districts as they have been for 30 years.

By a four to one vote, the Supreme Court held that the reapportionment violated a federal law, passed in 1911, requiring that congressional districts should be contiguous and contain as nearly as possible an equal number of inhabitants.

Swiss Scenes Shown In Holmes Lecture

The scenery of Switzerland was colorfully presented at Carnegie Music Hall last night by Burton Holmes in the second of his series of travel talks. Rare views of glacial formations, daring mountain climbing and thrilling ski jumping added interest to the pictures. Brilliantly colored pictures, accompanied by incidental music, was a feature of the evening. Next Tuesday Mr. Holmes lectures on Sweden, Denmark and Norway.

'MERCY' PLANE RESUMES HOP

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Rushing West with an oxygen breathing chamber, two fliers, forced down here last night by bad weather, took off for Tucson, Ariz., this morning.

The pilots, Stuart Reiss, of New York, and Chester Pickup, of Pittsburgh, had planned to go on to St. Louis last night and complete their trip today, but the weather west of Columbus was such they could not leave here.

Pickup joined the plane in Pittsburgh after it had been forced down there, and previously at another point in Pennsylvania.

The oxygen chamber was started West when word was received in New York that Alice Hilliard, stepdaughter of Robert Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal, was suffering from pneumonia and could not recover unless placed in the chamber. Word received today was that she had rallied and that arrival of the chamber no longer was a matter of life and death.

BELLEVUE SUED ON BANK BOND

Court action to force the Bellevue School Board to return to the closed Citizens Trust Company of Bellevue $50,000 in bonds which had been given to the school board by the bank to secure the deposits of borough school children, was begun today by the State Banking Department. The state officials allege that the bank did not authorize the posting of the security.

Judge Frank P. Patterson, before whom the petition was presented in Common Pleas Court, declared:

"I intend to do everything in my power to protect the deposits of the school children. However, on the face of things, it looks as though the bonds must go back to the bank."

The State Banking Department and the School Board were asked to file briefs and a decision will be rendered later.

The State Banking Department alleges that the board of directors of the bank did not authorize such a guarantee and that it was done by A. N. Smith, secretary, who took it upon himself to give bond for the deposits.

MELLON OFFERS TAX INCREASE PROGRAM

Estate Tax, Restoral of 'Nuisance' Levies Urged; Small Incomes Included

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—An outline of the administration's tax increase plan to provide $390,000,000 this year and $920,000,000 next fiscal year as presented today to the House Ways and Means Committee by Secretary Mellon follows:

Corporation income taxes to be increased from 12 to 12½ per cent.

A super estate tax to be graduated from one per cent on estates of $50,000 to 25 per cent on those in excess of $10,000,000.

Individual income taxes to have normal rates at 2, 4 and 6 per cent, with surtaxes beginning with one per cent on incomes over $10,000, graduated up to 37 per cent on those between $100,000 and $200,000, and 40 per cent on those above $500,000, as compared with the present maximum of 20 per cent on incomes in excess of $100,000.

Personal exemptions to be lowered to $1,000 for a single person, and to $2,500 with one having dependents, with a credit of $400 for each dependent.

Revival of many of the miscellaneous taxes of 1924, including increase of one-sixth of per cent rates on tobacco manufactures and products except cigars; an increase of 1 cent on stock sales; extension of tax on admissions of 10 cents and above; a tax on manufacturers sales of automobiles, trucks and accessories at 5, 3 and 2½ per cent, respectively; a stamp tax on conveyance of realty of 50 cents for each $500 value in excess of $100; a tax of 5 per cent on manufacturers sales of radio and phonograph equipment; a stamp tax of 2 cents on each check and draft; tax on telephone, telegraph, radio and cable messages of 5 cents on charges between 14 and 50 cents, and 10 cents on those above.

Postal rates be increased to cover a deficit in revenues of about $150,000,000, although no specific rate was suggested.

FLAMES PERIL OIL TANKS

Firemen of three towns battled for more than four hours early today to subdue a stubborn blaze which swept the Belle Vernon Iron and Metal Company and threatened ignition of storage tanks containing nearly 600,000 gallons of crude oil at the plant of the Standard Oil Company at Speers, near Charleroi. The fire came to within 100 feet of one of the tanks before it was subdued.

Starting in the office of the metal company, the blaze destroyed the two brick buildings and several sheds housing the concern. Firemen from Charleroi, Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon were called when the fire threatened to spread to a 70,000-gallon storage tank of the oil company. The tank was within 100 feet of one of the burned buildings.

U. S. NAVY UNFIT, ADMIRAL SAYS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol told the House Naval Committee today the fleet at present is "unbalanced" and not fitted for possible emergencies.

The head of the Navy General Board made this statement while approving the Vinson $616,250,000 construction program.

That bill, he asserted, does not conflict with the general board's similar 10-year program to bring the Navy up to treaty limits.

He insisted that the country should "keep our fleet built up at all times and not wait for war."

The Donahoe Label Protects Your Table

Donahoe's Butter Policy:

a square deal for the Public all the time! Not some of the time for your information— FACTS about butter prices

Over a period of 10 business days — from Monday, December 28 to Friday, January 8th—the wholesale butter market in Chicago made a gradual decline in price amounting to 5½ cents a pound.

On Monday, December 28, Donahoe's were selling butter at 2 pounds 71 cents and on last Thursday, January 7th, Donahoe's price on butter was 3 pounds 89 cents—a reduction of 17½c on three pounds of butter, or almost exactly in line with the true butter market conditions — the wholesale market had declined 16½ cents on three pounds, Donahoe's had dropped 17½ cents.

NOW—for the other side of the picture

From Friday, January 8, to Wednesday, January 13, the wholesale butter market has dropped only 1c per pound, so when yesterday, Tuesday, January 12th, you found a certain other store dropping their price — at one slash—21c on three pounds, from 3 lbs. for $1 to 3 lbs. 79c, although the wholesale market price was practically stationary, you KNOW that you have been paying MORE THAN YOU SHOULD for butter bought in that store; and you further KNOW that the price was desperately lowered to regain trade that had been lost through a high-price policy. In such a store you pay a high price for many days—a low price for a few days.

Donahoe's choose to beat such camouflage methods---unwarranted price-slashing is a game two can play at---so here goes---

VOTE MACHINES BEING CHANGED IN COUNTY

McGovern Denies Beamish's Right to Order Devices Returned to Factory

Poole Engineering and Machine Company mechanics will start to work today making changes in the voting machines required by Secretary of the Commonwealth Richard J. Beamish, who declared that the machines in their present condition could not be legally used in the primary election.

Beamish directed that the machines be returned to the factory at Baltimore for the changes. In the discussion of the matter at the County Commissioners' meeting yesterday, Chairman Charles C. McGovern said:

"This voting machine controversy is the result of competition between the manufacturers. Each has tried to put the other out of business. There has been a war going on. This company has been harassed to the point of sabotage, I am informed, and the litigation has prevented them being used except in a limited part of the county. Now the Secretary of the Commonwealth I don't believe had any right to order them back to the factory for minor changes that can be made here. The changes will be made here, and, I hope, soon enough for the spring primary election."

Is Fat Starvation exacting these penalties from your child?

Begin today serving rich, vitamin-bearing meat fats in this concentrated form at every meal

Two million school children, authorities say, are suffering from grave forms of malnutrition, which the right kind of meat fats will help correct. Fats are sheer energy, 2¼ times more nourishing in this respect than any other form of food. And one-third of a normal child's energy should come from pure fat foods.

Scientists warn against letting fat starvation continue through the formative years. Growth may be stunted, weight may not be normal, bones may not be straight or strong. Chronic fatigue and other defects may develop into lifelong handicaps.

Now you can give your children the wholesome meat fats they need in a form they will enjoy—Good Luck meat fat margarine. Its economy enables you to let them spread it on thick. Note how they relish its delicious flavor, and observe how they thrive under its sustaining energy. Good Luck richly supplies the important growth vitamin A and also contains the bone-building vitamin D. Serve it at every meal and use it as rich shortening and seasoning in all your cooking, too.

Warning: Cheaper Margarines Lack Good Luck Health and Food Values

Lack of vitamin A is a common cause of malnutrition.

Line 1 shows growth rate of standard test animals fed Good Luck meat fat margarine, proving high vitamin A content of Good Luck.

Line 2 shows growth rate of standard test animals fed vegetable "nut" margarine. Marked loss of weight indicates serious absence of growth vitamin A in this kind of margarine.

(Portion both spread Good Luck, richer in vitamin D than any other spread for bread tested.)

WE NOW PRESENT — By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

JUST TO MAKE sure that nothing is overlooked in sports broadcasts in Pittsburgh, Joe Sartory, manager of WWSW, plans to relay a detailed report of the opening polo game from Hunt Armory on Saturday night, January 23 . . . Polo has beaucoup action and we imagine that someone like David I. McCahill who understand: the game thoroughly would make the play plenty interesting to the WWSW audience . . . There's real sportsman's blood in the game of polo

Question a Day:

Is it possible to broadcast an ordinary telephone conversation over the radio?—George R., Mars, Pa.

Answer—Yes. It has been done a few times in Pittsburgh. Paul Miller once "reported" a play by play description of a football game to KQV listeners from a telephone booth in Pitt Stadium.

Charles S. Patterson, the "Park Bench Philosopher," starts a running fire comment on news and editorials over KQV at 7:45 tonight . . . Patterson is to interview Maurice B. Cohill at the same time.

Thad Brown of Ohio seems destined to succeed Ira E. Robinson on the Federal Radio Commission, thus extinguishing all hope entertained here a few months ago that the new commissioner would be a Pittsburgh man.

Today's Tid Bit:

News broadcasts of WCAE emanate from the quiet sanctum of George Seibel on the Sun-Telegraph editorial floor. This remote control arrangement necessitates the ringing of a bell at the beginning and conclusion of the broadcast as a warning for the announcer. Lou Kaufman was reading his report in the usual fast fashion yesterday when the tinkling of a bell led him to believe that the broadcast time had expired. He signed off and returned the program to WCAE studios two minutes ahead of time. Someone had called Mr. Seibel on his phone and Lou mistook this ring for the station clock.

"Income raised from $4,000 to $14,000," writes I. R. Harris. These are typical of the letters Mr. Marchand receives daily.
But come tonight, see for yourself. You will be surprised—you will be given new worlds of confidence and a fund of startling money-making ideas. Mr. Marchand's program may be worth thousands of dollars to you. Get there early.

Volumes Represented by Members, Gifts Made to Circulating Library, Prizes Given

One scarcely knew the dignified College Club yesterday afternoon, for, indeed, dignity was almost completely discarded for the time being. The occasion was the general readers' book party at which everyone impersonated a book, brought a book for the circulating library, guessed what the impersonations were and participated in a grand march all over the clubhouse. Mrs. Herbert Graham led the march, Miss Gwendolyn Niemann furnishing the music.

Mrs. C. Dickson Harnack won first prize for her representation of "Nicholas Nickleby," Mrs. James Wallace Hopkins, second, for her "Cakes and Ale" and Mrs. H. W. Cope for guessing the identity of the masked speaker (Miss Marguerite Spilman) who spoke on "standing on the three worst mystery stories of the year." Then there were attractive bookmark favors for all the guests.

Mrs. Clarence B. Watkins and the club president, Mrs. J. Brooks Huff, presided over the tea table.

DESIGNER PRESENTS NEWEST MODE IN TRAVELING CLOTHES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 13 — Going places far from home and seeing things is a grand diversion, but no matter how beautiful the scenery or view, it is not half as important to the average feminine traveller as the view she presents in traveling clothes. Which is perfectly right and proper. For she who fares forth in clothes more suited to afternoon wear in town is not going to be comfortable either physically or mentally. Smart, well-tailored clothes of sturdy fabric, and simple design with little dashes of color neatly placed... clothes that allow for comfort and are easy to wear in a casual way—are ideal and indeed the only suitable wear while traveling. Clothes for travel wear are in a group by themselves and a few such things will be eminently more smart, useful and durable than a trunk full of garments that are meant for stay-at-home purposes.

SHOWN IN TODAY'S interesting sketch we have a practical travelling coat and a suit for the same purpose, both garments from Maggy Rouff. The coat is of putty-colored homespun and has a collar of unplucked brown seal, the same fur being used for a small scarf which is attached to the front of the collar and knotted. The collar continues to the waistline in a draped shawl effect. Smart is the raglan sleeve with buttoned tabs midway between elbow and wrist. Large patch pockets at each side button in the same way.

* * *

AT THE RIGHT is sketched a very smart suit that would make sight-seeing a perfect joy. For it is smart, comfortable, light in weight and easy to wear. Brown, beige and red striped wool jersey is combined in the jacket with dark brown jersey. The scarf is knotted at the throat and the ends button down onto the same buttons that close the front of the vest beneath. Box pleats at each side and across the back of the skirt give ample width for walking.

GIRL ATTACKED, NEAR DEATH

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 13.—Dorothy May Herion, 17, a Charleroi High School student, today battled for her life, following an attack by two men near her Fallowfield Township home Monday night.

Regaining consciousness yesterday, she was believed on the road to recovery, but last night suffered a relapse. Her condition is regarded as serious.

She is believed to have been struck a heavy blow over the heart in the attack.

Borough and township police are searching for two young men who were seen in an auto near the girl's home on several occasions recently.

BONES DUG UP NOT CHILD'S

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Bones taken from the basement of the Cincinnati tenement where the body of 6-year-old Marian McLean was found, are not those of a human being.

This was announced today by Dr. W. M. Krogman, anthropologist at the Western Reserve University medical school, who examined them.

The bones were unearthed from the basement of the building yesterday shortly after Charles Bischoff, 45, operator of the tenement, had been indicted for first degree murder in the child's death.

Investigators believed the bones might be those of human beings and that Bischoff might have been responsible for the deaths of other children in Cincinnati who have mysteriously disappeared in recent years.

Loughran, located in the Eighteenth Ward of said city, abutting on Warrington avenue, containing an area of 14,375 square feet, more or less, and

WHEREAS—The land taken was part of a larger tract containing five acres more or less bounded on the north by the Kaiser Place Plan of Lots of record in the Recorder's Office of Allegheny County in Plan Book, Volume 22, pages 8 and 9, on the east by Warrington avenue, on the south by property now or late of Michael F. Garrigan et al, Timberland avenue and an unnamed 10-foot alley, and on the west by the right of way of the West Side Belt Railway Company, being part of property which Elizabeth G. Gillespie by deed dated November 15, 1890, recorded in said Recorder's Office in Deed Book, Volume 924, page 39, conveyed in fee to Michael John Loughran, who, having on ordered thereof, died on December 25, 1912, leaving his last will and testament duly probated and of record in the Register's Office of said county in Will Book, Volume 317, page 361, wherein he devised the same to his widow, Mary M. Loughran and children, and

WHEREAS—The taking of part of said tract cut off from the land left all access to Warrington avenue and

WHEREAS—Said city enacted its Ordinance No. 185, approved March 21, 1929, of record in Ordinance Book, Volume 41, page 156, entitled

AN ORDINANCE—Relocating, laying out and opening Library Road in the Eighteenth Ward of the city of Pittsburgh, of a width of 70.0 feet on land occupied for park purposes from the southern line of the Kaiser Place Plan of Lots to Edgerton Avenue, and

WHEREAS—Said City thereafter opened and dedicated said Library road, commonly known as Saw Mill Run boulevard, to a width of 70 feet for public highway purposes as provided in said Ordinance No. 185 and caused the same to be permanently improved for purposes of general public travel, and

WHEREAS—Said Library road as thus opened includes within its lines all of that portion of Warrington avenue on which said part of land originally abutted, and said tract of land was taken from said tract only on the line fixed by said Ordinance No. 74 as to said Ordinance No. 74 thus leaving no intervening strip of said land between the west line of Library road and the west line of said park taking, so that the part of property left in said tract has no access whatsoever to said Library road, and

WHEREAS—Viewers were appointed by the Court of Common Pleas of said County at No. 1437 July Term, 1925, to assess the damages caused by the taking authorized by said Ordinance No. 74, which matter has not been proceeded with that the Viewers are now preparing to file their report awarding damages inter alia, to said Mary M. Loughran for the taking of said tract as a whole being designated on the plan attached to the Viewers' report and

WHEREAS—An appeal was taken from said Viewers' report which is now pending in the Court of Common Pleas of said County at No. 2335, April Term, 1926, wherein said Mary M. Loughran claims damages from said City for the taking of said land and for consequential injuries occasioned by the destruction of access from the property left to Warrington ave. and

WHEREAS—Said Mary M. Loughran has not received any compensation whatsoever for the taking of said land by said Ordinance No. 74, and

WHEREAS—Said City intended at the time said Ordinance No. 74 was enacted to relocate and widen Warrington avenue so that the west line of the new Warrington avenue would be the same as the west line of the property taken from said tract of land by said Ordinance No. 74, and thereby restore access from the property left in said tract to the new public highway laid out and opened in place of Warrington avenue as it theretofore existed, and

WHEREAS—The remaining strip of land now lying between the west line of said Library road and the west line of the land taken for public park purposes by said Ordinance No. 74, is unused and unnecessary for development for public park purposes and has never been dedicated to or used for such purposes, and the City desires to abandon the land so taken for public park purposes subject to the right to hold and use that part thereof included within the lines of said Library road for public highway purposes only, in order to minimize damages and to promote the development of adjacent land and to make it more productive for tax purposes, and

WHEREAS—Said Mary M. Loughran has agreed to waive the right to recover damages in the pending appeal and to discontinue and quit or remit to the use of the City accounting the taxing order had by said Ordinance No. 74, and to dedicate the part thereof included within said Library road for public highway purposes.

Loughran taken by said Ordinance No. 74 approved February 13, 1925, for public park purposes, bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

BEGINNING at a point in the westerly line of Warrington avenue, as it was at the time of the passage of said Ordinance No. 74 at its intersection with the southerly line of the Kaiser Place Plan of Lots of record in the Recorder's Office of Allegheny County in Plan Book Vol. 22, pages 8 and 9, thence extending along the last mentioned south 70 degrees 43 minutes 40 seconds west 10 feet to a point in the westerly line of property taken by said city by said Ordinance No. 74, thence extending along the westerly line of said park taking south 31 degrees 37 minutes east 424.18 feet to a point in the line of land now or late of M. F. SECTION 3. The City Solicitor is authorized and directed for and in behalf of said City to file of record in said Viewers proceedings at No. 1437 July Term, 1925, and in the pending appeal from said Viewers' report at No. 2335 April Term, 1926, the following stipulation, viz:

Thrills Are Manufactured, Horror Is Inspired— Says Novelist

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, by King Features Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13.

A voice is raised in Hollywood questioning the possibility of a horror cycle in motion pictures.

"How are they going to do it?" demands Novelist Edgar Wallace, "when there is only one good horror story written every 50 years."

Sylvia Sidney

Mr. Wallace, whose crime thrillers have raised the blood pressure of several nations, names "Dracula" and "Frankenstein" as two really great shockers.

"Two in a century," he says, "and both are on the screen already. You can manufacture thrills, but horror comes from inspiration."

It so happens Mr. Wallace will inject some supernatural creeps into his first story for R-K-O.

"But no corpses," he remarks. "I'm getting fed up on horror stories with corpses."

What his angle is he won't say. But when he and Merian Cooper submitted the story, David Selznick tabbed it "an astonishing boxoffice idea."

Lucille Gleason

GOSSIPS ARE SAYING

Sylvia Sidney got a wire from Chicago relations berating her for not confiding plans of her marriage. Come to find out someone took a picture of Sylvia dancing with Stanley Smith at a Mayfair party, and a Chicago paper used the photograph with a caption announcing the pair's engagement . . . Roberta Gale is leaving R-K-O and will sign with another company . . . Lucille Gleason, any day now . . . Lucille Gleason, popular with all the boys and girls of the press, took some good-natured kidding when she came to a studio preview in a pair of black satin pajamas . . . Clarence Brown is cured of a stubborn cold, and is flying again, after a month and a half on the ground . . . Sari Maritza, Paramount's new importation from Berlin, actually is Patricia Detring-Nathan, an English girl born in China on St. Patrick's Day.

NATURAL MISTAKE

Arthur Caesar reports that when a visitor asked for the cutting department at a studio the other day, an absend-minded doorman sent him in to see the auditor.

MIX GETS NEW ONE

The other day I ran onto a conference between Tom Mix, Peter Kyne and Uncle Carl Laemmle.

Now it develops Universal has bought Kyne's story, "Oh, Promise Me," as a future Mix vehicle, probably his second.

In the meanwhile, Tom will start work February 1 on "Destry Rides Again." Since Helene Costello is going to Europe this week, Universal will have to find him another leading woman.

I understand Tom turned down a swell offer to do a week at the Paramount Theater before he starts his picture.

Pauline Frederick Has Chicken Farm

Pauline Frederick has gone her Hollywood neighbors one better by selecting a hobby that is unique and at the same time exceedingly profitable. She owns a chicken ranch. Just before her recent departure for New York to appear in Paramount's "Wayward," with Nancy Carroll and Richard Arlen, the actress counted her flock and found that it numbered more than 1,000. While in the East, where she also is to do a stage play, Miss Frederick is making arrangements to exhibit her choice plymouth rocks at the large poultry shows.

Green Room Studio New I.K.S. Organization

Players of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement have organized the Green Room Studio, the executive committee of which has Hyman Bennet, Eleanor Frank, Ruth Goldrock, Alfred Goldenberg, Walt Framer, Julia Pince Teller and Harry Ratner as members. Its purposes include study of the theater, technical phase of the theater and experimental work. There will be weekly study meetings in the Theresa L. Kaufmann Theater. Any interested adult may join. Miss Frank, secretary, will give information.

NEW PONTIAC·SIXES AND V-EIGHTS

Pontiac offers these important developments at no extra cost

SYNCRO-MESH • QUIET SECOND • FREE WHEELING • RIDE CONTROL • LONGER WHEELBASE • INCREASED POWER AND HIGH SPEED • GREATER ECONOMY • NEW, ROOMIER FISHER BODIES • RUBBER CUSHIONING AT 47 CHASSIS POINTS • ENCLOSED SPRINGS • RIDING COMFORT • FULL PRESSURE LUBRICATION

Syncro-Mesh with quiet second and free wheeling—all three in the new Pontiac

Look for thoroughness in Pontiac engineering. In all new Pontiacs, Syncro-Mesh makes gear-shifting effortless—second gear is really quiet—and free wheeling permits you to coast along at will. Then shift gears without touching the clutch. You get not just one, but all three of these big improvements in all Pontiacs at no extra cost.

NEW PONTIAC SIX

Brings the Important Developments of the Year to the Low-Price Field

Take the features you expect in a fine motor car. Check them against Pontiac. See how complete this great new six is, yet how exceptionally low in cost.

For instance, Pontiac Six offers Ride Control—that remarkable new improvement which permits you to regulate shock absorber action to all driving conditions. And this is but one of its riding comfort features. Bodies are longer and roomier. Interiors are deeply upholstered and richly appointed.

Pontiac's spirited performance is based on an over-size engine improved to provide greater horsepower and higher top speed. Yet no more fuel is used than in cars built for economy alone. Truly, the new Pontiac Six is an outstanding General Motors value. Buy, if you wish, on G. M. A. C. terms.

NEW PONTIAC V-8

Offers the distinction of V-8 Performance at a List Price under $850

You know it is the V-type motor that makes some of the world's finest cars so brilliant and reliable. Now this distinguished power plant is offered in the Pontiac V-8 at the lowest price ever known.

In addition to this remarkable motor, there are such refinements as effective body insulation against heat, cold, and noise—such luxury standards of body upholstery and finish as you obtain only from fine Fisher craftsmanship.

You owe it to yourself to see the new Pontiac V-8 at your earliest opportunity. If you have driven lesser cars, learn how economically you can graduate to V-8 ownership; if more expensive ones, how Pontiac V-8 meets your needs and tastes for much less money.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Mourning Becomes Electra," which the Theater Guild will bring to the Nixon next week, is the longest successful play ever produced in America. The longest of all was George Bernard Shaw's "Back to Methusaleh," which was presented in three parts, each at one performance several years ago. "M. B. E." is given in three parts, too, but all in one evening, beginning at 5:30 with an hour for eats at 7, when the first part ends. Then follows the other two parts. Judith Anderson and Florence Reed will be seen in the roles that are played by Alla Nazimova and Alice Brady in N'Yawk. Seats tomorrow at the b. o.

Small Timer says the femmes still walk to improve their complexions—to the corner drug store.

"The Gay Bandit," with George O'Brien, Vic McLaglen, Roscoe Ates and Linda Watkins, has been completed. O'Brien was slightly injured while working in it . . . "The Black Robe" film will feature Frederic March and Kay Francis, with Sidney Toler in a good part . . . Lily Damita, Carey Grant, from musical comedy, and Charlie Ruggles will have parts in "He Met a French Girl" . . . Jackie Searl as well as Robert Coogan will be in the talkie "Miracle Man" . . . Henry B. Walthall, favorite of other days, will be featured in the picture, "Police Court," the cast of which will include Robert Edeson, Aileen Pringle, Leon Janney and Al St. John . . . "The Death Ray," is the title of a story to be filmed with Jack Mulhall and Josephine Dunn large in the camera's eye.

Scooter Lowry Heads Stage in Sheridan

Four acts of Radio-Keith-Orpheum vaudeville, headed by Scooter Lowry, original "tough guy" of Our Gang screen comedies, open in the Sheridan Square today. Eddie Quillan in his new talkie, "The Tip-Off," also is on the bill.

Circus Life

Marion Davies and Clarke Gable in an episode from "Polly of the Circus," Miss Davies' latest film now in the making on the West Coast.

Movie Remote Control Is Monkey Business

"Remote control for monkeys" is the latest innovation in directing animals for motion pictures used in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Tarzan, the Ape Man." A loud speaker horn was placed on the side of a large setting in which a trained chimpanzee was to do a stunt with Johnny Weissmuller, world champion swimmer in the title role. The trainer stood on one side of the set by the cameras and attracted the attention of the "chimp" by calling his commands through the loud speaker before the scene began. After the first rehearsal, the animal obeyed the "long distance" commands perfectly and after each scene, would peer into the horn to see if he could discover his master!

BEER AS HEALTH AID UPHELD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—Two noted medical experts appeared before the Metcalf Senate Committee today to plead for the return of beer.

Dr. Graham Lusk, expert physiologist and former dean of Cornell University, appeared at the behest of the modificationists to expound the benefits of wholesome beer as a health restorative.

Prof. Francis G. Benedict, director of nutrition in the Carnegie Institute, Washington, came to tell of the vitamins and other healthful ingredients contained in good beer.

The committee has been told the return of beer would restore health, wealth and prosperity to the country.

Another witness was Dr. J. C. Vorbeck, of St. Louis representing the Missouri branch of the National Association for Modification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

'REGULARS' WIN IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Regular organization candidates of the Republican and Democratic parties overwhelmed three "outsiders" in yesterday's Cleveland mayoralty primary, the complete vote count showed today.

The winners, who will be candidates for election February 16, were former City Manager Daniel E. Morgan, Republican, and County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller, Democrat.

Miller's lead over his two Democratic opponents was gratifying to chieftains of the party, including Newton D. Baker, mentioned frequently as a possible candidate for president. Baker had indorsed the successful candidate.

RAIL WORKERS PLAN BOOM

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Railway labor chiefs today said they believe resumption of necessary maintenance work by railroads would quicken the return of prosperity.

The labor leaders planning for tomorrow's parley on wage cuts and unemployment relief with heads of the railroads, asserted they would request such work be kept at once.

Should the railroads agree, spokesmen said, many industries would pick up and the carriers themselves would benefit through increased freight tonnage.

They announced they also would ask assurance of steady employment for one year for 2,225,000 necessary workers to remove fear of joblessness, restore confidence and release $2,000,000,000 in purchasing power now held back by uncertainty.

Senator Caraway Asked to Address Father Cox's Army

POOR DIRECTORS URGE INCREASED RELIEF FUND

MANY NOTABLES EXPECTED AT STADIUM

Several Bands Offer Services for Demonstration By Jobless Saturday

Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, the first woman to be elected a member of the United States Senate, today was asked to be one of the speakers at the rally of the unemployed, to be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Pitt Stadium.

Henry Ellenbogen, chairman of the committee for the mass meeting of women and those who were unable to accompany Father James R. Cox's army of jobless to Washington, announced that he had wired Senator Caraway.

Elected from Arkansas yesterday, the widow of Senator Thad Caraway is especially interested in the welfare of the unemployed.

A partial list of the members of the committee for the affair was made up today. It includes County Commissioners C. C. McGovern and William D. Mansfield, Dr. J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University; Mayor Charles H. Kline, Representative Matthew Dunn, N. K. Beck, State Senator James J. Coyne, Attorney D. J. Mulvihill and Mayor Edward McCloskey, of Johnstown.

Acceptances of a number of prominent speakers to address the throngs, which will ask a $5,000,000,000 improvement program from Congress and the President, are expected tonight or tomorrow.

Father Cox has been offered several bands for the program to supply music between speeches, while a quartet will sing.

A great part of the assemblage, besides those members of the army of jobless who will be given their certificates there, are expected to be women and unemployed men who were unable to go on the parade to the national capital.

FAKE DRY RAID SUSPECT HELD

A nation-wide search, which special agents of the United States Department of Justice, and other federal operatives, have conducted since October, 1929, has ended with the arrest of Howard Shaw, 30, of Erie, in that city, the United States Attorney's office here was notified today.

Shaw was taken into custody last night, accused of being the leader of a band who, on Halloween night, 1929, entered and searched four Erie homes. They posed as prohibition agents, it was said.

Four of the gang already have been convicted and sentenced. Another is awaiting sentence.

The prisoner is held in default of $5,000 bond on a charge of impersonating a federal prohibition agent.

Actress-Author Thrilled as Old Play Is Revived

MISS JANE COWL

Jane Cowl Studies New Version of Famous 'Hit'

As Pittsburgh watches the musical presentation of the old legitimate stage success, "Smiling Through," sitting in the background as an interested spectator is Jane Cowl, co-author of the original play and star of 1,000 performances.

Miss Cowl admits the play offers her sentimental memories. There is a thrill at the sight of the old costumes in which she graced the stage 10 years ago. While the new offering is only two weeks old, Miss Cowl feels much will be accomplished here in adding charm and finish to the production. Would she like to revive the old role? And Miss Cowl answers:

"While it is beautiful, yet after 1,000 performances, one tires. I am only here to add any advice that might be wanted in reviving the roles once so near to me. There is a true reaction from Pittsburgh audiences as a rule, a good guide in bettering a play."

STUDENTS DENY PLAN TO STRIKE FOR COACH

McKeesport Leaders Block Move in Effort to Keep Grid Chief at $300 Month

While the student body of McKeesport High School buzzed with excitement today over the refusal of the school board to elect William J. Sullivan, Jr., as football coach, possibilities of a strike among students had been definitely killed through action of the student leaders. Sullivan, who brought his football team close to the county championship this season, finished his present contract December 1.

DECIDE AGAINST STRIKE

Burke Vidnovic, captain-elect of the football squad, said today:

"There is no strike. We want our coach back next season and we told Supt. Dr. James B. Richey so. A student strike probably would hurt our coach more than help him."

At the school board meeting Monday night the athletic committee, T. D. McKee, chairman, presented a resolution calling for Sullivan's retention and citing the successful record of the team last season. The committee recommended that Sullivan be given a position at $300 a month. The matter was referred to the teachers' committee.

CAN NOT AFFORD COACH

Superintendent Richey said:

"When Sullivan was elected the last time he knew his contract ended with the football season. As a matter of economy we did not intend to retain him throughout the entire school year. Some folks in the town and many students want him all year, so that they might hold spring football practice. We can not spend $300 a month for a coach when our budget is so low. When football season comes around again the matter of engaging a football coach will be brought up."

A number of the boys of the senior class failed to report to their classes after lunch and many persons believed a strike had been started. However, the young men, about 20 in number, decided to personally petition Superintendent Richey in behalf of Sullivan. They went to another school building, where the superintendent has his office, and had a long talk with Mr. Richey.

NOTED ARTISTS AID MEMORIAL TO FOSTER

Modarelli Places Wreath On Composer's Grave as Choirs Sing His Melodies

Nationally known artists are participating in the anniversary commemoration of Stephen C. Foster in Allegheny Cemetery this afternoon under auspices of the Stephen C. Foster Committee of the Civic Club of Allegheny County.

Markers made by pupils of the Clifford B. Connelley Trade School are posted on cemetery roads leading to the Foster plot. During the ceremonies Foster melodies were sung under the direction of Lyman Almy Perkins.

Antonio Modarelli, conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, placed a wreath on the Foster grave in the name of the Civic Club and the people of Allegheny County. Another was placed by Edward A. Montgomery, Pittsburgh representative of the National Association of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

H. Vernon Porter presided. A double quartet, composed of Caroline Bracey Anderson, Ladia Smith Flenner, Mrs. L. Wallace Ohl, Villetta Young Dice, Matthew Kaiser, William Holmes, E. Clair Anderson and Robert Elder sang and the address was by Dr. Robert MacGowan.

Public schools, theaters and movie organists also have programs of Foster music. Chimes in Calvary Episcopal Church rang at 8:30 this morning; Trinity Cathedral chimes at 12:20, while those of Highland Presbyterian Church and St. Stephen's Church in Sewickley will ring at 7:45 p. m.

TRIBUTE PAID HEINROTH

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Heinroth were guests of honor at a farewell dinner given last evening at Cathedral Mansions by the Western Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Guild of Organists, which was organized in 1921 by Dr. Heinroth, who served two terms as the first dean.

Nearly 100 members and guests attended the dinner. Dean Julian R. Williams presided. Besides the dean, these organists spoke: John A. Bell, Dr. Charles N. Boyd, Harvey B. Gaul, Dr. Caspar P. Koch, Albert Reeves Norton, William H. Oetting, Charles A. H. Pearson and Harold E. Schuneman.

Reference was made to the debt Pittsburgh owes Dr. Heinroth for 25 years of service in recitals and lectures. Expressions of regret over his resignation as organist and director of music at Carnegie Institute were accompanied by hearty good wishes.

He leaves Pittsburgh February 1 to become head of the department of music at the College of the City of New York.

RETURN SLAYER, LEAGUE ASKS

Gov. Gifford Pinchot today had the appeal of a Civil Liberties committee, to seek the return of Lodis Ross, said to be Frank Pauletta, escaped murderer, who was spirited into West Virginia from Coverdale recently by police. Ross has been identified by court and police officials of West Virginia as the escaped murderer.

The committee stated that the seizure was "an affront to the constitution of Pennsylvania," as it pre-empted the authority of the Governor. The letter further states that Pauletta's return to Pennsylvania would restore the confidence of the public and teach public officials that they cannot discard the laws of the state.

UNION DEBATED BY METHODISTS

Separate committee sessions today were being held by the commissions negotiating the union of the Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Protestant Churches of the United States in meetings today in the William Penn Hotel.

A series of joint conferences will be held during the day as the members confer on proposals in the union in preparation for the principal joint meeting tomorrow. Bishop Charles L. Mead, of Denver, is presiding at the Methodist Episcopal sessions, while the Rev. Dr. J. C. Broomfield, of Pittsburgh, is chairman of the Methodist Protestant group.

Possibility of agreement being reached was forecast by the members. Adoption by both commissions will result in the article of agreement being presented to the general conferences of both denominations next May. Approval at that time will send the proposal to the 26 annual conferences of the Methodist Protestant churches and 103 of the Methodist Episcopal denomination.

CARE OF NEEDY WILL REQUIRE $1,250,000

$850,000 Budgeted for 1931 Outdoor Relief Far Below Needs Now, Board Asserts

The Allegheny County Board of Poor Directors has asked County Commissioners to increase the fund for general outdoor relief from $850,000 to $1,250,000 in the 1932 budget.

The poor directors will appear before the commissioners as soon as the expenses of the poor district are reached in the budget sessions. Maj. J. Clyde Miller, a director, expects that this conference will be held today.

POOR FUND DRAINED

The commissioners will also be asked to approve either a loan in anticipation of taxes or a bond issue in the amount of $600,000 as the coffers of the Poor Board have been drained by heavy emergency relief demands. At present, 16,400 families which had been receiving financial aid from the Poor District have been cut off from this assistance. No money has been paid for the last two days.

A loan of $600,000 is being sought now by the Poor Board from one of the large banks. Recently the board was refused a loan by a bank.

ASKS JOINT SUIT

The Dauphin County Poor District, which has filed a petition in Common Pleas Court there to test the constitutionality of the Talbot bill, has asked the Allegheny County Board of Poor Directors to share the cost of the trial. George Wharton Pepper, of Philadelphia, and George E. Alter, of Pittsburgh, have been retained as counsel.

If the Talbot bill is constitutional, it would afford about $600,000 for relief in Allegheny County. The Poor Board has not yet acted on the request for aid from Dauphin County.

$100,000 Asked Council To Keep 2,200 Working

More than 2,200 laborers on unemployment relief projects will be discharged after January 18, unless City Council grants a request for more funds at once, Engineer Henry D. Johnson said today.

Johnson, acting for the Public Works Department, asked more than $100,000 additional funds to complete a number of construction projects throughout the winter months, but Council's committee on finance held the request over at a meeting yesterday.

President John S. Herron explained the delay was until more information was received to determine where funds were to come from.

More than 3,000 men are now employed. Johnson said, in conjunction with a co-operative plan with the Allegheny County Emergency Association. If Council appropriates the money the laborers will be given work until after April 1.

Europe Didn't Let Us Yodel Off War Debt

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

When Andy Mellon hung a wreath on Alexander Hamilton it was a reminder that all international financiers are saying it with flowers.

Alex was the first Secretary of the Treasury at a time when we had scored two great victories. We not only had won a war, but we had borrowed plenty.

Our credit was about as hot as the north side of a hill in a blizzard. We were just a young republic struggling to keep its head above the amendments and Europe trusted us about as far as you could throw clam chowder with a fork.

But Alex managed to get his little red mittens on some coin by mortgaging the old homestead and leasing the side of the barn for a liver pill ad.

Did Europe allow us to yodel off those war debts? Now it's your turn to tell one.

We paid off to the last toothbitten and earmarked dime.

But that was yesterday when men were men and diplomats hadn't learned to do card tricks.

We established a bad precedent by paying for our first war. Now they expect us to pay for everybody's.

SCAN DECISIONS OF WILKERSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Senate Independents are scanning the record of Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago before they decide whether to support his nomination to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Wilkerson recently sentenced Al Capone to 11 years in the penitentiary.

President Hoover sent the nomination to the Senate today and the Independents immediately pulled out records of his decisions to ascertain his views on labor.

Not long ago they defeated confirmation of Judge John J. Parker to the Supreme Court and waged a vigorous fight against Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice of the United States.

There were rumblings in the Senate of a possible contest against Wilkerson because of his decision 10 years ago granting the injunction asked by Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty in a railway labor dispute, but thus far there has been no organized move against the Illinois judge.

HOUSE PROBING SHIP COMBINE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(AP)—Full details concerning formation of the recently organized United States Lines Company, the largest shipping combine in the world, were requested today by a House committee as it opened an investigation of the Shipping Board.

The new company, composed of a combine formed by the International Mercantile Marine—Roosevelt Dollar and Dawson interests, took over operation of the ships formerly controlled by the United States Lines after the latter became involved in financial difficulties.

The Shipping Board also was requested by Chairman Davis, of the House Merchant Marine Committee, to prepare a detailed reply to the report of Comptroller General McCarl criticising the board's activities and demanding that the Merchant Fleet Corporation, the Shipping Board's operating agency, be made accountable for expenditures of public funds.

Don't Try to 'Spice' Your Marriage With Quarrels

Is it "queer" for two people to love each other and not quarrel—or try to make each other jealous?

Elise's friends say it is. They warn her that romance can't possibly last because she doesn't "make life spicy enough" for the boy friend. According to them, love is a matter of tossed reputations, "suspected rivals" or it just isn't love!

Are you among those who think that? Or do you think that lovers should get along well with each other? Please help me.

ELISE.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I never thought I would have to come to you with a problem but I am. And I hope you can tell me what I'm supposed to do. I've had experience enough, I know.

FOOLISH TO QUARREL

"Maybe you think this is a silly problem, but I do hope you will take time to answer it for it means a great deal to me.

"I am engaged to be married to just the finest fellow in the world. He's 21 and I'm 18. No we've never quarreled or even had a real case of argument about anything for we both seem to think alike on most things. He's so considerate.

"My girl friends all tell me that I don't make life spicy enough for him. They think it is queer that we don't fight and that he never goes with another girl or I with another boy.

"We've known each other for about a year and we love each other. Why should I make him angry and jealous. He has never done anything to hurt me. He's simply wonderful to me, and to my parents and my sisters and brothers. They all like him as much as anyone could.

SATISFIED WITH HIM

"These same girls tell me that I could get lots of fellows with money but I don't want them. Bud hasn't much. He has to work like most folks. But I love him.

"Please tell me if I'm doing right. Should I try to make life more spicy for him as these girl friends say I ought think I should. And gee. It's fun this being in love. I like things just the way they are. But I want to

FOOLISH TO QUARREL

People can give each other [illegible] quarrel. But when people quarrel, it's because [illegible] is bigger and better than love. It's usually because they're jealous and worried, and each of them determined to be boss. Or it may be because they're really not interested in each other, in ideas and training. If all this never could get along together, however much they might try.

Now, little girl. Never try to spice life for anyone with quarrels. It won't work. But there's one way to spice it and it's a bright, clever girl should ask.

What is it? It's keeping your mind active and alert, keeping interested in what's going on in the world outside of your own home and your own lives as well as with them. It is learning to be a wise, sympathetic stimulating pal. It's being generous and courageous even when trouble hits you. It is knowing how to be tolerant and understanding and humorous and gay.

It is just living gallantly.

And that after all, honey, is the secret of a successful marriage. No one can keep marriage a perpetual romance—a constant game of thrills. But you can always keep it a great adventure if you live it gallantly. And here's hoping that you two do.

By FAY KING

How do they meet them guys?" many a girl wonders as she reads of some affair between an ambitious beauty and her rich protector.

She may not wish to do likewise, but she wonders about it.

Well, there is system to all success. You'd be surprised to know of some shrewd plans and sums of money invested to land the certain party.

It often involves a costly trip on the same liner, a stay at the same expensive resort, and some girls are staked to this by those who hope to profit by the attachment later on.

Thousands of dollars have sometimes been "invested" only to have the man escape their schemes.

It's quite a game with more "losses" than "wins."

Madge Finishes Third Act of Her Play

I [illegible] possessed one of the [illegible] specimens of [illegible] faces extant, but something in her eyes betrayed her echo of my comment that something must be the matter because Katherine was pale and her eyes had a worried look when she brought us our second draught of black coffee.

It was only in her eyes, however, that my worry was mirrored and she promptly banished the expression as she directed a barrage of raillery against me.

"It's got 'em again!" she exclaimed, lifting her hands to Heaven with an exaggerated gesture of exasperation. "Two hours after Katherine blows in with her coffee. It gets the idea in its apology for a brain that somewhere a cog has slipped in the household machinery. Of course Katherine was pale. So are you and I. Staying up all night working and watching isn't any substitute for rouge and lip-stick you know, and Katrina has the hardest part of all, the dull one. We're all pepped up or at least I am over these pearls and diamonds of wit and wisdom which are falling from your ruby lips, pipe the similes. I think I must have been a lawyer in some previous incarnation, but Katrina has nothing to do except sit still and wait between serving pots of black coffee, and you know how conscientious she is. That worried look you noticed—and I didn't, probably came from trying to guess just which moment of serving coffee was the best for your psychology—not to throw you off the track you're cycling along so admirably."

"What a nuisance I am to both of you," I exclaimed worriedly, and wondered at the gratified look which flashed for a moment in Lillian's eyes. She is the last person in the world to flaunt an obligation, yet there was no mistaking the fact that she was glad to have me worried over the discomfort to which this all night dictation was putting herself and Katherine.

"I might remind you," she said drily, "that the sooner you get this job done, the sooner we all can get to sleep. So I suggest that you take up the white woman's burden again and proceed to toss a few more right from the chest. You ought to be pretty pearly at the wind-up anyway, or my dramatic judgment has gone completely floosy. But it seems to me that you've been heading toward a third act climax and a dandy one, for the last half hour."

"I have," I told her contritely, for her reminder that I was delaying the slumber of my friends by my futile work had touched upon the raw. "And I won't stop again until I finish. Ready?"

She poised her pencil.

"Go ahead," she urged. "Shoot the works. See if I care how fast you talk. I'm the Demon Steno, I am."

I observed her and shot the works in more rapid fashion than I had yet employed, pushing to the back of my mind the worry over Katherine's preoccupied manner, which despite Lillian's reassurance was still with me. And then as I rushed through the quick give and take of my stronger emotional scene, and paused for breath upon a speech and accompanying action from one of the characters which in the play had all the effect of an unexpected bombshell, Lillian cried out "Curtain," and clapped the tiny curtain across the stage, shutting out the puppets from view.

"Don't shoot me!" she pleaded. "I know I'm inexcusable. But that's the finest climax and curtain line I've seen in many a moon. You're going at such full speed ahead that you can't realize you've come to the end of the thing. But listen to this."

She read me the three last speeches with the lines describing the actions and as the last words fell from her lips, I drew the long, deep breath of a runner who has broken the tape and realizes that the race is ended.

"I don't know how good it is," I said falteringly, "but you're right about one thing. It's the logical ending."

"I'm always right," she swaggered smiling. "Now, get to bed while I type this."

There was the sound of running footsteps in the hall outside and Katie's voice frantically calling.

"Missis Graham. Missis Underwood, coom qveeck!"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Food Variety for Children Better Than Any Tonics

Recently a mother asked me to recommend a "tonic." For some reason or other her youngster had been eating poorly. Already the mother had purchased all the tonics her friends advised.

Dr. Copeland.

The boy's appetite eventually returned, but frankly I do not believe the tonics helped one bit. Perhaps his appetite would have returned more quickly if he had not been forced to take tonics.

Most tonics have a bitter and unpleasant taste. When children are forced to take them, the result is generally an upset stomach, not an increased appetite.

In former times tonics and woolen underwear were believed to be essential to good health. The "spring tonics" were a part of the history of every family.

Today good food has replaced the old-fashioned tonic. The daily diet includes plenty of vegetables and fresh fruits. Even during the winter weather there are lots of fresh air and sunlight. These are the best of tonics.

There is one tonic that is still given, but not as an appetite builder. This is cod liver oil. Cod liver oil is of great advantage because it supplies the necessary vitamin D, so important for the natural development and growth of the body.

If the children lose their appetites, it does not mean they require a tonic. A better remedy is to make sure there is abundant variety in the menu. The child should be tempted with various vegetable dishes and fruit preparations. Just as is the case with the adult, a child quickly tires of the routine meals. His dishes must be made appetizing. When this is the rule, you rarely observe loss of appetite.

A frequent cause of lost appetite in a child is constipation. Many mothers are negligent in regard to this important habit. At an early age, every child should be taught the value and importance of a daily movement. The child should never be permitted to go more than one day without it.

Sometimes the children are restless and irritable. They grind their teeth and have twitching of the muscles. They show a marked disturbance in appetite. Sometimes they eat excessively and at other times take very little food.

This condition is quickly remedied. If you think your child has worms, consult your physician, who will give the proper medicines. Please remember that lack of appetite may be due to various things. It does not mean necessarily that the child should have a tonic. Something else is likely to be much better.

Household Hints

Here are sauces that are served with hot asparagus: Oiled butter, Hollandaise sauce, cream sauce, or a sauce made by mixing salt, pepper and mustard with two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and then stirring in the same amount of olive oil.

Don't throw away theater checks, Pullman seat checks, etc., in too great a hurry. You might find you have forgotten or lost some article in these places and definite information as to your reservation would lead to its recovery.

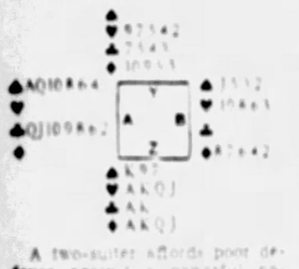
A Hard Luck Hand

One seldom sees a stronger hand than the one shown below. It was dealt by one of my clients to herself in a regular game. How would you like to open bidding as she did with 3-No Trumps and have a player bid a small slam and make a grand slam against you?

♠K97 ♥AKQJ ♣AE ♦AKQJ

To the dealer's surprise her bid of 3-No Trumps was overcalled at her left with 4-Spades, her partner and B passed. Z bid 4-No Trumps. Next A bid 5-Clubs, which B shifted to 5-Spades; Z bid 5-No Trumps, and A went to 6-Spades which Z doubled. The full holdings are shown below.



A two-suiter affords poor defense against a powerful no-trumper and A's bid of 5-Spades was fully justified. An informatory double is barred with such a hand. A had to bid No bid by Y-Z could have defeated even a grand slam bid. A was void of both red suits while B held no clubs. The latter ruffed two leads of clubs and led twice through Z's spades picking up all of them. A's clubs were left established and his spades were all good. I never recall a more remarkable hand.

Bidding on the hands below went: Z 1-No Trump, A Pass, Y 2-spades, B 3-Hearts, Z 3-No Trumps, A Pass, Y 4-Spades, B and Z Pass, A Double.

B made an opening lead of his king of clubs. Not wishing to make good a club in dummy, B shifted to a lead of his queen of hearts. The trick was won in Dummy. Between now and Friday see if Y can go game against any subsequent defense open to A-B.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When cheekbones are high and prominent, rouge should be applied below them. Otherwise, the upper part of the face will appear even wider.

Superfluous hair on legs and arms can be removed easily by the application of depilatories. These chemicals do no harm. When eyebrows form a bridge over the nose, appearing in one line, the effect is sinister; the eyebrows should be given a divorce. Remove the extra fuzzers with the tweezers. As eyebrows have only a light hold, tweezing often finishes them.

The weekly manicure by a professional operator is no longer a luxury but a necessity. Easy enough for the home gal to clean up and embellish the left hand, but working on the right hand is something else again. By using cuticle cream on the nails every night, hangnails can be staved off, and the pink sheaths will show more luster and greater delicacy.

COMFORT for COLICKY BABIES

with Castoria's gentle regulation

"The best way to cure colic," says a famous doctor, "is to prevent it." And the best way to prevent it is to avoid gas in stomach and bowels by keeping the entire intestinal tract open, free from waste.

But there's one thing to remember here. A tiny baby's tender organs cannot stand harsh treatment. They must be gently urged.

This is just the place Castoria comes to a mother's aid. Castoria, you know, is made specially for the delicate needs of babies and children. It is a pure vegetable preparation which is absolutely harmless. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

Children never fight Castoria. They like its taste and the relaxed comfort its gentle regulation brings.

For many years it has helped mothers through trying ordeals with colicky babies, with children suffering from digestive upsets, colds and other little ailments. Keep it on hand for your children. You can always tell genuine Castoria by the name Chas. H. Fletcher.

Street Etiquette

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for a young man to tip his hat to a young lady who is on the other side of the street?

F.

Yes. If the young lady bows to him he should of course take off his hat in recognition of her greeting. And by the way, the word "tip" is not in good usage in "tip his hat." In street way either "take off his hat" or "raise his hat."

EXPERIENCE AGAINST PHYSICAL EDGE

CAN EXPERIENCE IN basketball offset speed, height, weight and the fire of ambition? That's the question on which will hinge the outcome of the big floor battle at the Stadium tonight between Pitt and the Dukes, the first chance of the latter to compete against major home opposition and the high spot of the local season up to date. The Panthers have the experience, while the Bluff boys under Capt. Bunk McGeever have all the physical requisites of a great team, plus the extra zeal they may be expected to show in trying to make the most of their initial opportunity in big basketball time here and whatever degree of smoothness such a clever coach as Chick Davies may have been able to develop in just two earlier games.

Bunk McGeever

Dr. Carlson's veterans are certain to have their hands full coping with their ambitious young foemen. On the other hand, the inexperience of the Duquesne team may cause the wearers of the Red and Blue to make a few mistakes, and the Panthers have yet to fail to take advantage of such breaks.

EVEN WITH EXPERIENCE on their side, the Pitt passers will have to show better form than they have displayed so far to keep the Dukes from copping the honors. The Carlsons have lost seven out of 13 games, the first time in seven seasons they have had a balance on the wrong side of the book at this stage, and their poorest record since the campaign of 1924-25, when they won only three contests against 10 defeats.

Lack of staying qualities, if they have not overcome that weakness, is another factor that may operate against the Panthers. In some of their recent games, the Pitt floormen either held a slight lead when the end of playing time drew near or were only a few points behind. Then, in the last couple of minutes, their tired bodies refused to respond and the opposition won going away.

THE MOST WELCOME thing that could happen for the Pitt players right now would be for John Albright to get permission to come back to the team. Anybody more than 6 feet tall and able to play basketball would come in handy for the little Panthers. Kowallis, Lawry and McCamant have been unable to muster up the stuff to take the ball away from rangier, huskier opponents, either off the banking boards or on the tipoffs.

In the Kansas series, the Panthers never succeeded in gaining the tip. They had to rely on hurrying the passes off their rivals and taking missed shots to get control of the ball. It remains to be seen whether or not Russ Ochsenhirt, Pitt's clever sophomore center, can out-jump Capt. McGeever, of the Dukes.

ONE OF THE physical marvels in sports is Joe Ruddy, who came to Pittsburgh with visiting teams more than 30 years ago to play water polo at the Natatorium. He's still active in that strenuous game, at the New York A. C., though he was on the American Olympic team as far back as 1904 and is now 53. Ruddy advocates total abstinence from alcohol and tobacco by athletes in all branches as the surest means of enjoying long careers. As for swimming, Joe thinks the old-timers had greater endurance, but says the natators of today are faster because of the new crawl-stroke methods and are smarter in addition.*

Winship Story

TO BE ELECTED co-captain of a varsity athletic team in his junior year is the distinction won by a Pittsburgh boy. Winship Story, of this city, and Vincent Balkus, of Lynn, Mass., have been chosen captains of the varsity wrestling team of Tufts College at Medford, Mass.

Story is the son of Prof. Chester Story, teacher of drama and English at Schenley High School. He is in his third year at Tufts, taking a course in arronautical engineering. In 1929-30 he was a standout on the freshman wrestling team at Tufts, and last season broke into the varsity group.

THE PITTBURGH LAD made an excellent showing in the recent annual wrestling meet for the intercollegiate championships of New England, held at Brown University in Providence, capturing second place in his class in a large and experienced field.

Story and Balkus, the first co-captains in the history of Tufts athletics, will lead the varsity wrestlers of their school for the first time Friday night, when the team of Massachusetts Tech is to be met in Medford.

ADD MEL OTT, Fred Fitzsimmons and Red Lucas to the baseball holdouts, and also Babe Herman, for the latter declares he won't sign for less than the sum he drew last year, $19,000, and Brooklyn reports say he isn't going to get it. Further additions may be expected almost daily as the result of the general salary-chopping. In the end some of the objectors will surrender and the other cases will be compromised, but in the meantime you'll hear more salary disputes than ever before. Incidentally, the Giant owners, in print already with the Terry and Ott financial debates, appear determined not to let the Yankees and Babe Ruth hog the New York publicity.

THE UNCONDITIONAL RELEASE given by the Cincinnati club to Outfielder Eddie Roush, followed by the latter's announcement that he does not plan to play again and will quit the game for good, closes the career of a man who won in his heyday a ranking among the greatest players that baseball has known.

Roush was the class in every department—a great hitter, a top-notch baserunner and a sensational fielder. The modern game has seen few to equal him. He added thrift to his playing ability, and the wolf won't prowl even on his side of the street. Eddie pulled down $200,000 during his major league days, saved most of it, and goes out with more money than many magnates.

ROUSH CRACKED THE theory that a long period of spring training is essential to the success of a player in any major league season. He missed the entire practice trip of the Reds in 1919 through a holdout, but jumped in without training and led the National League in batting for the second time, duplicating his feat of 1917.

And it can no longer be said in support of spring training that Roush was a lone exception. Last year Chick Hafey didn't join the Cardinals until long after the pennant race had started, and Al Simmons didn't spend a day in the spring camp of the A's, working out at Hot Springs, where he had no chance to bat against major league pitching, yet Hafey and Simmons became the batting champions of the season.

Eddie Roush

ROUSH MIGHT HAVE been a Pirate upon entering the National League 16 years ago had not Jimmy Callahan, then managing the Bucs, fallen for a fake story. Eddie played with Indianapolis and Newark in the Federal League in 1914 and 1915, respectively, and when the stars of the so-called outlaw league were thrown on the market in 1916, Pittsburgh fans who had watched Roush in many games at old Exposition Park held him to be better than Benny Kauff and the rest of the Feds and advised his purchase. But somebody slipped Callahan the groundless yarn that Roush had become left-handed only because his right arm had been broken and that he couldn't throw with enough power or zip for the big leagues. Whereupon Jimmy passed him up and for $7,200 the Giants got a ballplayer worth a fortune.*

DUKES FAVORED OVER PITT

SKIBOS HOLD EARLY LEAD TO WIN

Carnegie Tech mowed down its sixth consecutive basketball opponent last night in highly complimentary fashion. The Tartans are rejoicing today over their 35-25 triumph at the expense of Temple University's Owls, who dropped their second ball game to a Pittsburgh team by losing to the Skibos. Previously, in assisting to inaugurate the local collegiate campaign, they were beaten by Pitt.

The Skibos marched away to an early lead. Except for a very brief period, during the first two minutes of play, when Temple led by 3 to 2, the Plaid was in the van. At the half, Tech sported a four-point lead at 18-14.

JAGNOW STARS

Sharpshooting by Lou Jagnow, Jimmy Leonard and Bob Smith accounted for the Tech scoring from scrimmage in the first half, and Smith, Red Fergus, Leonard and Jagnow saw to it that the points continued to roll in during the second. Jagnow dumped in four baskets, but left the game with a strained back after getting his fourth.

Temple had the stuff, but couldn't find the range. Tough luck attended no small percentage of the Owls' attempts to score, too, though Carnegie defense tactics forced the visitors to do most of their shooting under extreme pressure.

Some very messy ball handling by Temple's two big fellows, Len Gudd and Dutchy Leibensperger, offset the accurate and fine passing of the clever Joe O'Brien and Fitch. Fitch, ordinarily an ace at the foul line, missed four out of five. O'Brien, with two field goals and three fouls led the Owls' scoring with seven points. Jagnow was Tech's big gun with 10.

PLEBES TOP KISKI

In a red hot preliminary, the Tartan Plebes put on a garrison finish to nose out Kiski, 30 to 25. Leo Mackey and Buck Snyder handled the game in great style, giving the gallery wolves little to hoot over. The lineups:

W. Va. Students Must Make Good on 'Fakes'

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Harry A. Stansbury, West Virginia University athletic director, has issued an ultimatum to 183 students in the school who are charged with altering athletic tickets.

Unless the students, alleged to have gained admission to football games by fraud, make good the $2 admission price, the "case will be turned over to the proper disciplinary officers of the university," Stansbury warned in letters to the students.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE FASTEST SAILING VESSEL—The American clipper ship, Dreadnaught, holds the distinction of having made the fastest passage across the Atlantic Ocean under sail. Nine days and 17 hours after leaving New York, she cleared Fastnet Lighthouse, which is offshore from Cape Clear, Ireland. This record never has been equaled before or since. The Dreadnaught was 1,413 tons, 210 feet long, 40 feet at the beam, and had a draught of 26 feet. Finding this ship could carry extensive sail without strain, Capt. Samuels drove her consistently for 10 years, establishing an enviable record for steady and reliable service. (See: "Encyclopedia Britannica," 14th edition.)

Coach Charley Reid put his Yellow Jackets through a long workout at Duquesne Garden last night to prime the local International League puckmen for their game with the Detroit Olympics here tomorrow.

Capt. Tory Gregg, star right wing who has been out of the lineup for two weeks with a leg injury, engaged in little more than limbering up exercises, and there still is some question as to whether he will be able to play throughout tomorrow night's encounter. Doc Romnes, the other Jacket casualty, has succeeded in shaking off his shoulder injury, and, according to Coach Reid, is in condition to give a better account of himself than at any time since he joined the Pittsburgh forces.

The Olympics who gained two wins and a tie in three previous meetings with the locals have been strengthened through the signing of Art Gagne, former Les Canadiens and Ottawa National League star.

Harpster, Keough, Kennard, Dr. Beinhauer on Air Tonight

Four well-known guest speakers will feature the weekly sports program of Harry Keck and his Trained Seals over WCAE, the Voice of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, tonight.

Howard Harpster

Howard Harpster, famous all-America quarterback of Carnegie Tech; Jack Kennard, athletic director of the Keystone A. C.; Dr. L. G. Beinhauer, noted local sportsman, and Jack Keough, sports announcer and director of special events for WCAE, will answer the quizzes of the sports editor, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Football, basketball, boxing, track and field and club athletics will be discussed during the interesting period, with the seals barking at intervals. Listen in, you grownups and kiddies. The program is one of the best on the ether tonight.

Fitzsimmons, Lucas Balk at Contracts

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Another Giant star, Fred Fitzsimmons, burly right-handed pitcher, today wired the New York Sun from Arcadia, Cal., he was not satisfied with the contract offered him for 1932.

Fitzsimmons did not indicate in the telegram whether his salary was slashed.

He is the third Giant first-string player to reject the terms offered him this year. Bill Terry, first baseman, and Mel Ott, center fielder, have returned their 1932 contracts unsigned.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—The contemplated wide-spread baseball salary cuts hit here today when Charles (Red) Lucas, Cincinnati pitcher, announced he refused to accept $2,500 less than last year's salary.

Duquesne vs. Pitt at Stadium Pavilion.
Duquesne Freshmen vs. Pitt Freshmen at Stadium Pavilion.

By JESS CARVER

The basketball game that the good burghers of this city and the good citizens of these parts have been looking forward to, longing for and dreaming about for years and years will take place tonight as the varsity quintets of Pitt and Duquesne clash in the Stadium Pavilion. If they can get 6,000 into the pavilion tonight they'll have that many there. They'd have 15,000 if they could handle 'em.

Dudey Moore

Since Dr. Red Carlson lifted Pitt to its present high place among the elite of the intercollegiate basketball world and Chick Davies did the same for the Dukes, with the groundwork for Chick laid by clever and astute Bill Campbell, the dyed-in-the-wool fans have hoped to see the rival coaches' rival systems and rival teams matched. Tonight, their wishes come true. It is the first basketball meeting in history between the schools.

Pitt, home just exactly a week from its long and trying journey to California, has 13 games under its belt, just 11 more than have been played by the Dukes. The Panthers so far have met teams of the caliber of Indiana, Wisconsin, Butler, Purdue, Kansas, Southern California, Stanford and Temple. The Dukes have nosed out Grove City and walloped West Virginia Wesleyan.

Duquesne rules a slight favorite, what with stars of the caliber and experience of Jack MacDougal, Marty Reiter, Capt. Bunk McGeever, Dudey Moore and Feldman. The Dukes haven't been forced to ride 3,000 or 4,000 miles in Pullmans and face first class opposition every other night or so. Pitt is tired.

No matter what sort of a starting lineup he elects to use, Coach Davies sooner or later will have his aces, MacDougal, Brenner, McGeever, Reiter and Moore in the action. Davies is better off for reserves than is Carlson. Pitt will depend on Lawry, Kowallis, Ochsenhirt, a sophomore, and Don Smith and Hughes or McCamant throughout.

The preliminary tussle between the freshmen fives of the rivals will be worth watching. The probable lineup:

Pitt		Duquesne
Kowallis	F	Irwin
Lawry	F	MacDougal
Ochsenhirt	C	McGeever
Smith	G	Reiter
Hughes (or McCamant)	G	Moore

Referee—Joe Bonomo. Umpire—Dan Tonquinetti.

The Tipoff

The one and only "Heaven to Betsy!" Johnny Freund, and Dave Kerr, famous professional basketball star, sat in on last night's Tech-Temple game. After it all was over, Johnny shook one and all by refraining from putting the college boys on the pan, and telling how they used to play the game in the old days. The depression must be over.

Dr. Carlson and Chick Davies, who put their rival Pitt and Duke varsities against each other tonight, have been at it hammer and tongs all week, with their players and to Dr. Carlson's credit, Chick was no seamless net at all. They should have thought from the start to keep speaking for teams not to play a game tonight. Davies was very quiet.

The Dukes move on to Morgantown tonight to meet West Virginia, where, if they have any sort of luck, they should slip back into the wild outlook. West Virginia has found the going extremely rocky so far, having been bumped by both Westminster and Geneva.

Capt. Johnny Lawry of the Tartans played as good a game last night as he ever has played, and Chick Davies says that he was instrumental in the Tartans' victory. His floor work, passing and foo hooked faster than ever. He's a swell kid, too, and a fine leader.

Frank Wentz, varsity boxing coach at Tech, put the beef on plenty when he heard the Intercollegiate Boxing Association had decided to cut out the heavyweight class. The Tartan heavyweight opponents are plenty good.—JESS CARVER.

Signing of Mickey, Max Again Delayed

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—The off-postponed signing of Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker for a heavyweight championship bout at Miami, February 25 was postponed again today.

With the stage all set for a positive signing this afternoon, Jimmy Johnston, director of boxing at Madison Square Garden, announced the contracts had not been drawn up correctly and must be changed. No definite date has been selected at the present time for the much delayed signing of articles.

LUCAS IS HOLDOUT

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13.—Charles (Fred) Lucas, ace of the Cincinnati Reds pitching staff, has no intention of accepting a cut in salary, said here. Summoned by President Sidney Weil, Lucas was asked to take $2,500 less this year, he said, but declined the offer as unfair. Lucas has been with Cincinnati since 1926.

BRUNDAGE HONORED

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—(INS.)—Avery Brundage, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States and also of the American Olympic Association, has been appointed chairman of the sports committee of Chicago's 1933 World Fair, it was announced here today.

Students and graduates of McKeesport High School are up in arms as the result of the failure of the school board to reappoint Bill Sullivan, popular football coach for the 1932 season. The entire football high school threatened to strike, but changed its plans after an interview with J. B. Ritchey, superintendent of schools.

Bill Sullivan

Rumors that Sullivan, whose team McKeesport football team enjoyed the most successful season in the history of the school, would not be tendered another contract at the expiration of his old one on December 1 of last year became a realization when the school board at its monthly meeting referred the matter to the teachers committee, a move that is equivalent to dismissal.

Burke Vidmovic, captain-elect of the 1932 eleven, and two of his teammates attended the meeting of the school board to intercede in Sullivan's behalf, but the board turned a deaf ear to their plea.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The Boston Madison Square Garden is advertising 10,000 seats for sale at $1 for its Ernie Schaaf-Jack Dorval bout, Friday night, with the others selling at $2 and $3. The heavies are billed for 12 rounds. When a nationally known magazine recently printed that Babe Ruth is a big hearted guy, since he sends boys the country over letters asking him Christmas letters asking for aid. The Babe and the missus and his daughter totaled up the requests and found that they'd have to lay out $100,000 to make the kids happy and now the Babe is going to ask the gent who wrote that article to depict him as a Scotchman.

It took Max Schmeling seven months to land his first fight in the United States and now it requires that long and seven lawyers to land him for a match. In Philadelphia they think Steve Hamas will be a chump in the hands of Tommy Loughran when they meet in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night. It will be Hamas' first real test. So far he has been knocking over a flock of palookas. When Hack Wilson is traded by the Cardinals, who recently offered him a $7,500 contract instead of the $33,000 he received from the Cubs last year, to the Brooklyn Robins, the Hacker will get a much better break in salary, along with a bonus for signing.

The winner of the Johnny Jadick-Tony Canzoneri bout in Philadelphia for Tony's world junior-welterweight title next Monday night will receive a diamond studded belt emblematic of the title. The belt will be passed on every time the crown changes hands. Scotty Montieth, veteran manager of boxers, says Hughey Hutchinson of Philadelphia and not Johnny Dundee was the best boxer he ever managed. Hughey died of pneumonia at the height of his career and at the crisis of his illness fought an imaginary bout for the junior-lightweight title with Jack Britton, as he tossed deliriously in his hospital bed with his manager at his side. "Willie's the pet name for Scotty," happy to tell it, he said with a smile just before he died. I knocked out Britton in the seventh round and I'm the champion.

This is the night—and wotta night—when Pitt and Duquesne University's begin their athletic relations with a basketball game at the Syria Mosque Pavilion. Most of the players are fair in their studies and alumni of the two institutions and it will be an occasion to be long remembered, especially if the Dukes win. Ernie Pinckert, all-America star of the Southern California Trojans, received a lot of mail from feminine admirers during last season, which he turned over to his wife to answer. The Trojans crossed the enemy goal line 54 times during the season and converted the extra point 51 times, with Jimmy Hall's field goal here at the Notre Dame game, which was 15 touchdown goals in 18 attempts, with two of his three failures blocked.

Jack Dempsey, the famous old fighter, at boxer of New York, was a cinch to say the fellow who gave him his hardest fight was an almost forgotten boxer from Philadelphia named Sammy Smith, who used to be led into the ring seated on the shoulders of Packy McFarland, Dick Hyland, Ad Wolgast, Ray Nelson, Ad Wolgast, Willie Ritchie, Jack Britton, Battling Levinsky, Jem Driscoll, Matt Wells, Tommy Murphy, Young Otto, K. TERRY BALKED BY ERROR

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

A nod from John Gruber, official scorer in a Forbes Field battle of the past summer, and Bill Terry of the Giants, would have led the National League in batting for the second season in succession. John refused to be a yes man and Memphis Bill lost a hit that would have given him the prize over Chick Hafey and Jim Bottomley of the Cardinals.

Hafey edged out Terry and Bottomley but it was necessary to employ the fourth decimal to decide the winner. One more hit would have awarded Terry the exclusive honor and might have forestalled the big reduction in pay which his employers are attempting to force upon him.

Terry and many of his mates offered a strong protest of the ruling at the time—it certainly is a rare co-incidence that the resultant error given George Grantham deprived Bill of the cherished championship.

DREYFUSS ON MEND

William E. Benswanger, treasurer of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club returned this morning from New York where he has been in attendance during the past week at the bedside of his father-in-law, Barney Dreyfuss, Pirate owner, who is ill in Mt. Sinai Hospital.

The returning Pirate official had encouraging word concerning Dreyfuss. The Pittsburgh magnate underwent a serious operation one week ago. He is still in considerable pain, but his physicians believe he is on the right path to recovery. The owner of the local team will have to spend several weeks in the hospital.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League, was one of Dreyfuss' visitors since he entered the New York hospital. Heydler talked over pertinent baseball matters with Dreyfuss before the operation occurred. If the Pittsburgher continues to show improvement it is likely he will be able to discuss important questions with Heydler inside of 10 days.

The annual schedule meeting of the league will be held in New York February 2. Heydler and Dreyfuss both hope the latter will be in a position to offer suggestions at that time.

DOUGLAS PLAYS WESTINGHOUSE BOOTERS

By TOM BIRKS

Two games are carded in the Central League Saturday. The feature game is the visit of Clan Douglas to Swissvale meeting Westinghouse. The Pittsburgh Rovers travel to McKeesport to meet National Tube in the other contest.

The Clansmen are faced with winning all their remaining games to cop the title.

Fans have a treat Sunday when Bridgeville and Shannon Morrys swing into action at South Park in their national amateur cup replay. The teams battled to a scoreless tie last Sunday.

With the Central loop ready to close almost any week, it is possible the charity cup committee will swing into action soon with the first round draws.

On Sunday the Keystone League has carded one game, Cecil going to Morgan.

Stocks Advance

NEW YORK CLOSE WITH NET CHANGES

STOCK MARKET PRICES CLIMB VIGOROUSLY

Broad List of Leading Shares Surge Up 2 to 5 or More; Rails Active

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—The stock market resumed its climb with vigor today, after yesterday's breathing spell.

A broad list of prominent shares surged up 2 to 5 points or more, with rails still prominent in the advance. Trading was dull at the start, but quickened after mid-day. An upturn in United States governments in the bond market, after several weeks of sagging prices, was stimulating to securities generally.

Issues up 3 to 5 points included American Tobacco B, Liggett and Myers, B, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Union Pacific and Eastman. Shares up 2 points or more included United States Steel, Bethlehem, American Can, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Santa Fe, New York Central, New Haven, Westinghouse, Johns Manville and others. Among the many issues up a point or more were Standard Oil of New Jersey, and General Motors.

The turn in the United States governments obligations came on the heels of information from important banking quarters that the Federal Reserve System was embarking upon a broad program of credit expansion, presumably through open market buying of United States government securities and acceptances as well as encouraging rediscounting by members.

The tobacco shares turned upward on publication of J. R. Reynolds Company's annual statement, making the favorable showing of $3.63 per share of stock on the combined common issues, as increased from $3.42 in the previous year. Oils showed little response to the Sinclair-Prairie merger, since its terms had been authoritatively reported well in advance of the announcement. There was little activity in the coppers, despite the continued firmness in the metal market.

Revenue Freight Loadings Higher

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—Revenue freight car loadings increased sharply during the week ended January 2. The rise was due to the subnormal shipments in the previous week due to holidal influences together with the advance shipment of goods to avoid the increased rates. Actual loadings, according to the American Railway Association, totaled 503,325 cars, which compares with 441,589 cars in the previous week and 614,860 cars in the corresponding week of last year.

Producers Mark Copper Price Up

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Virtually all copper at 7½ cents a pound has disappeared from the market, and principal producers and custom smelters are asking 7½ cents per pound for the metal. Domestic business continues moderate, and sales of the metal abroad were light this forenoon.

Electric Power Production Drops

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Electric power output for the week ended January 9 was 1,619,265,000 kilowatt-hours, a decrease of 5.5 per cent from the corresponding week of last year. The decrease was about 1 per cent greater than shown in the preceeding week's comparison with last year.

Chadbourne Sees Sugar Trade Gain

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP.)—Thomas I. Chadbourne, author of the Chadbourne plan to restore sugar prosperity, returned today from conferences in Europe expressing confidence that "another year should see the sugar business out of the woods."

Pennsy Loadings Higher for Week

Total cars handled by the Pennsylvania Railroad system for the week ended January 9 were 89,319, compared with 78,873 in the preceding week and 108,146 a year previous.

PLANNING HELD NEEDFUL FOR STABILIZING

Growing Interest Shown in Promotion of Economic Balance Here and Abroad

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The depression has challenged fundamental thinking about the adequacy of our business structure. In taking a negative attitude toward this new scrutiny, a conservative banker recently remarked to me: "This is a great day for the nuts."

But a fast-minded observer recognizes the necessity for distinguishing between proposals which are sound and those which are fallacious. Readjustment is the time for the birth of workable new ideas. What is regarded as activated thinking today will be a commonplace a decade.

In Europe, also, in this country, there is a growing interest in the idea of promoting balance. The President's committee on recent changes in 1929 directed its attention to this new goal of stabilization, and since the depression the subject has received increasing attention.

PROGRAM OFFERED

In publishing a pamphlet by a committee headed by J. M. Clark, Columbia University economist, on the subject of long-range planning for the stabilization of industry, the New Republic helps to make orderly discussion of the new program feasible.

The first question may well be what is the reason for more systematic planning. The Clark committee by way of a reply says:

"The true objective of planning is not stabilization at any static level, but regularized growth.

"Stabilization of incomes through unemployment or insurance is to promote stabilized spending.

WAGE EQUALITY

"Greater equality in the distribution of incomes, increasing the proportion going to wages and the lowest salaries, to farmers and to the lower-income groups in general.

"Improving or eliminating the high-cost concerns which are often responsible for the lowest wage rates, being unable to pay more.

"Discovering and bringing about a desirable balance between productive equipment and demand, with provision for adequate anticipation of growth."

Other objectives include stimulating fruitful new uses of capital, and also stabilizing price levels, instead of artificially pegging individual prices.

SUGAR PAYS $1 ON COMMON

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The American Sugar Refining Company declared a dividend of $1 a share on the common stock payable April 2 to record of March 8. Previously $1.25 quarterly was paid.

Earl D. Babst, chairman, said the company earned its way for the first nine months of 1931. However, in the last quarter results were reversed and it is estimated that after all expenses, bond interest and charges, dividends and depreciation there will be a deficit for the year of approximately $1,250,000.

Brown, president of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation. Charles Rosenzweig will be general sales manager and Jerome Safron will continue as eastern sales manager.

Monotonous Inactivity in Jim's District Broken By Bank Holdup

CHAPTER VI

Glendale was the limbo of lost cops. It was one of those quiet, peaceful little suburbs which just came within the pale of a municipality, and with which over zealous cops, when they arrested someone with a political drag, were threatened.

"Lay off, flatfoot!" the peeved ward heeler would exclaim, "or I'll have you transferred out to Glendale, where you'll be picking the burrs outta your socks."

Of course there were other places on the outskirts of the city where the disfavored cop might be exiled. But if he lived on the other edge of town he was sentenced to Glendale. If he lived in Glendale he was transferred to North Woods which was across the big burg. It would have been not too nice to have him work in the same precinct in which he lived.

Glendale was the longest cab ride from the home of Capt. Jim Fitzpatrick and to Glendale he was sent showing that his demotion was not a mere department routine matter. He had incurred the wrath of the higher mugwumps and they sought to have it impressed on him in a nice significant way. They might have put it this:

"Get out your chewing gum and solitaire deck and bide a while in Glendale."

Capt. Fitzpatrick took it as the "breaks." He gritted his teeth, set his Irish jaw and dug out his musty captain's uniform which smelled of mothballs. He patted Mary on the head and she smiled cheerily, for that's the kind of wife Mary was. And he went to Glendale.

Synopsis

Daisy Beaumont, pretty platinum blonde, is sentenced to serve a long term in a reformatory when members of a corrupt police vice squad give false testimony against her. Jim Fitzpatrick, police captain, noted for his honesty and fighting spirit, knowing that Daisy was framed, succeeds in having her freed. When four racketeers are found murdered, Fitzpatrick suspects Guiseppe Belmonte, overlord of a huge vice ring. Belmonte is arrested. The police discover that Daisy is employed by Belmonte. The vice leader's attorneys immediately gets busy to have him freed. Fitzpatrick is disgusted when Police Chief Burton allows Belmonte to go free on a writ of habeas corpus. Daisy is arrested again in connection with another case and is released when her innocence is established. Jim Fitzpatrick tells his brother Ed, sergeant of the vice squad, that he is determined to bring Belmonte to justice. Ed, who admires Daisy, visits her. She says she is appreciative of what Jim did for her. Jim is notified that he has been transferred to an outlying district.

Now Go On

LITTLE EXCITEMENT

The first week or so was one of stagnant inactivity. A dog had been found unmuzzled. A little baby tottled away from the doorstep and for a time it looked like a real kidnapping until they found it around the corner behind some bushes. A woman threw a stone at a neighbor's chicken because the predatory creature was looking for virgin fields in her garden . . . A cat was marooned up a telephone pole for two hours—

It was an exciting life in Glendale. So Capt. Fitzpatrick simply settled back, began brushing up on the city ordinances and a few pointers in police maneuvers and got in a lot of pistol practice. It was in quiet, ennui-ridden, lassitude-sodden Glendale that Lieuts. John Makowsky and Tom Deegan, his former assistants on the homicide squad, found him one bright afternoon when they both had a day off together.

"It's great to see you guys," said Jim as he grasped their hands. "It's like a good dream come true. How's the old detail working? I don't read so much about it any more. How's Ed? He hasn't been home for a week. Why don't you guys say something? You look like a couple of banshees at a wake."

"The old detail's shot to hell," sorrowfully offered Mac.

"Ed's okay," warily answered Tom. "He likes his good times—but he'll make a crack detective some day. He's got the old Fitzpatrick stuff in him, hasn't he?"

Jim nodded slowly, avoiding the gaze of the other two. They shuffled their feet. But an instant later the trio was to be electrified to action by the startling clang of the alarm bell. The desk sergeant, pudgy and panting, hurtled into the room. He shouted:

"It's the bank, captain! Stick up! They killed the cashier!"

Whoop! Just in time for the party!" shouted Mac.

Let's go, Fitz!" cried Tom.

The three men ran out of the room. Jim dragging a uniformed cop out of a chair on the way. They jumped into the squad car and with siren shrieking and throttle wide open they sped toward the bank where several policemen were pushing back the crowd.

PURSUE ROBBERS

The car nosed through the jam and one of the policemen jumped on the running board. He informed between pants:

"Killed the cashier—Grabbed ten grand——three of 'em—— Big gray sedan——Headed south——turned west two blocks down——"

"Thanks," snapped out Capt. Fitzpatrick, reaching around and opening the door. "Hop in! Let's go, boys!"

The car roared in first, cried mournfully in second, and screamed with joy in high. It took the corner two blocks down on a skid, balloon tires whining. At the next corner Mac nearly upset it when a hatless man, standing almost in the middle of the street, pointed south again. A straight road, half paved, with makeshift cross streets—and the gray sedan a half mile away.

"Step on it, Mac!" shouted Jim, leaning over.

"She's on the floor, Fitz!" cried Mac. With a straight-away course the big car began to gather momentum. When they were within a hundred yards of the other car they saw it careen to the side and belch three men who hurtled furiously off over the field toward a fence which surrounded a soap factory.

Come on, get 'em!" cried Jim, jumping out.

Sergt. Ed Fitzpatrick ran his fingers through his black curly hair. He was sitting on the edge of the divan, his coat off, his collar open, his gun and holster on a chair. There was a haggard, harassed look on his face.

"Listen, Kid," he said wearily. "I've got to go home tonight. Been away for a week now. I need some rest and some laundry and Jim will want some explanations. And your roommate Kiki's getting sore. I'm a star boarder here."

"But I don't want you to go, you great big officer man," cooed Daisy, planking down beside him without taking trouble to adjust her negligee. "We're havin' a good time, ain't we?"

"Yes, too darned good for my own good. You be a nice girl for one night, baby, and I'll be back. I got things to tend to."

"Secrets?"

"No—no secrets. But I want you to get out tonight and do a few things for me. I told you what. You promised. And if I hang around you won't do a thing. I wanta know things, see?"

He put his hand under her chin and kissed her lightly on the lips and then leaned back and looked into her eyes.

"See?"

"I see. Sure it ain't some other girl?"

Now how could it be some other girl?" grinned Ed. "If I had another girl I wouldn't have her now. I've spent every spare minute with you. She wouldn't speak to me now."

"Oh, I don't know—I would, even if you left me flat for two weeks," and Daisy put her arm around his neck and drew his cheek to hers.

"Well it ain't—so there darling."

"If you had another girl," mused Daisy, looking off into space, "You could tell her you had been on extra duty—and she'd believe you."

"Don't tease. I ain't got another girl. You're the only girl in the world for me. Even if I had another girl she wouldn't stand a show with you. Why, I couldn't look at another girl."

"Honest?" she held him at arm's length, looking at him earnestly.

"Honest!" and he caught her in his arms and squeezed her tight, pressing his lips to hers. She wilted for a moment and then pushed him away.

"Ed," she began slowly, "I guess you're right. You better beat it tonight and I'll show up at Celli's. This Belmonte guy might be gettin' suspicious and send around—"

"I—I thought you were through with him—I mean as far as him having any say-so about you—"

"Oh, I am—but you know those guys are always thinking you are going to double-cross them and they keep an eye on you. Anyway, I might learn something."

"That's right."

"Ed," continued Daisy. "You gotta promise to see me tomorrow — it's my birthday — we'll celebrate."

"I didn't know women celebrated their birthdays. But, okay, baby. I'll be on deck. I know where I can get some real stuff—and ditch that Kiki jane."

"Sure it ain't some other girl?" Daisy asked

ALL IN A DAY

By MARK HELLINGER

WITH YOUR permission—and I can't see what you're going to do about it—I'd like to get away from the Broadway angles for the moment. I picked up a little story yesterday that amused me no end, as the English are supposed to say but seldom do. The yarn concerns a group of youngsters who attend public school on the West Side. All of them about nine years of age and all the normal kids of today.

It seems that, about a month ago, one boy fell ill with the measles. Nothing unusual about that. The boy remained home and nobody worried. Two days later another boy in the same class developed the same illness. Another day and two more boys in the same group were stricken. That made four kids out with the measles from the same room. And the teacher—a Miss Wilson—became worried.

She marched to the assistant principal as soon as she learned of the latest cases and confided her fears.

"There must be something wrong," she asserted. "I know that a case or two of measles is nothing unusual. But four boys from one class is a little high, don't you think?"

The assistant principal didn't seem any too excited.

"I wouldn't let it disturb me unduly," she replied. "Make out your report in the usual manner. If anything else happens, let me know."

Something else happened the following morning. Three more boys failed to come to classes. They, too, had the measles. That made seven cases altogether. And when the eighth, ninth and tenth attacks of measles were announced, things had come to a pretty pass.

All signs pointed to an epidemic, but the doctors were at a loss to explain the strangeness of the situation. Ten boys from one class had been hit by the annoying illness—but there wasn't another case in the entire school. All in all, a mighty mysterious way for an epidemic to act.

That afternoon, the principal, the teacher and a detective sat in the principal's office.

"Miss Wilson," said the head lady, "this is a most unusual situation. Accordingly, it must be handled in an unusual manner. I don't want you to think that I've lost my sense of balance in sending for a detective to investigate a medical case. But the doctors tell me frankly that they cannot understand the situation. And I am compelled to do something before the situation gets out of hand entirely.

"This is Mr. B——, the detective. He wants to ask you a few questions."

The detective smiled reassuringly.

"Nothing to become alarmed about, Miss Wilson," he told her.

"Suppose you tell me a few things about the first boys to become ill. The first two or three, that is. Were they wild boys or quiet types? What were their habits, so far as you could judge?"

The teacher supplied her impressions in detail. After 10 minutes or so, the detective nodded. He said he might have some word for them in a short time, and departed . . .

About 5 o'clock that night, a boy stepped out of a house a few blocks away. The kid looked up and down the block, and then walked rapidly away. He had gone but a short distance when the detective stepped from a basement and took him by the arm.

"What's the matter?" cried the kid. "Lemme go."

The officer held him tightly.

"I'm a detective," he announced sternly, "and you're under arrest. You're going to the station house with me."

The boy was kiddishly defiant.

"I didn't do nothing," he said. "You lemme go. I didn't do nothing."

The detective tightened his grip.

"You didn't, eh?" he growled. "Weren't you just in that house with Philip, the first boy in your class to get the measles? Weren't you in there with him? Weren't you?

"Don't you know that that's a criminal offense? You'll get at least five years in jail for this. You'd better tell me all about it right away. Come on, now."

Before they had gone another block the kid had blurted out the entire story. Philip, the first kid to be taken ill, had been giving the measles to all the other boys in the class. He charged each boy 10 cents—and for that price, the other boy could lie in his bed with him and be reasonably certain of catching this rather pleasant illness that would keep him from school for some two weeks.

Two weeks of no school for 10 cents. What an idea! . . .

"IN A RECENT column," writes R. Goldberg, of Chicago, "you told an alleged gag about a picture producer who was unable to read or write. You stated that he was sitting in his office with a famous author when a wire arrived. In order to cover his ignorance, the producer looked at the wire and laughed heartily. He then left the room to ask one of his secretaries what it had said. The author picked up the wire to see what had caused all the laughter—and read that the producer's Denver theater had burned to the ground.

"Something tells me you were just a little mixed up. Will you kindly explain how the author could have picked up the wire and read it when, in the previous paragraph, you said that the picture magnate had left the room in order to see one of his secretaries and find out what the wire had said?

"Did he not take the wire with him? How about an explanation?"

Very simple, Mr. Goldberg, in this particular studio, the secretary makes a copy of every wire before she brings the original to her boss. And if you don't like the explanation, sir, please forget about the entire matter. Any other questions, and I would be stuck . . .

A Crisis at Hand

Drastic Measures Are Justified If Necessary to Keep People From Starving

A critical situation has developed in respect to unemployment. The welfare organizations are swamped with applications for relief, and do not have enough money to help more than a mere fraction of the applicants. Public funds which were being used to provide food and fuel for the destitute are exhausted.

The County Board of Poor Directors, on whom 16,400 needy families outside of Pittsburgh depend for aid, has spent all its money and must resort to borrowing. It may mean an increase in the county poor tax.

Director Lang, of the City Department of Public Works, asks Council for $178,320 more for municipal improvements on which the destitute can be employed.

Drastic steps are justified to save people from starving. Prompt action is necessary. There is just one suggestion that the Sun-Telegraph would like to make to the public authorities dealing with this problem, and that is that wherever it is possible work relief should be given in preference to direct relief, a job rather than a dole.

New Allegheny Dams

The Stream Should Be Made Navigable to Olean, N. Y., And the Kiskiminetas Improved, Too.

The House Rivers and Harbors Committee has tentatively approved the extension of slack-water in the Allegheny River from Kinerton to a point above East Brady. This will require the building of two new dams at an estimated cost of $3,800,000.

In times of high water steamboats have been known to use the Allegheny as far as Olean, N. Y., and the stream should be made permanently navigable to that point. It will be done eventually, but why delay?

In the history of the improvement of the Allegheny to parallel that of the Ohio, which was not made navigable all the way from Pittsburgh to Cairo until 50 years after the first dam was built? Piecemeal construction is unsatisfactory.

The Allegheny Valley has natural resources even superior to those of the Monongahela, and with complete canalization it may become as important an industrial region as the sister valley.

The business interests on the upper Allegheny offer impressive arguments in favor of connecting the stream with Lake Erie through a canal running along French Creek. If that is accomplished the commercial importance of the river will be increased still further.

Not only the Allegheny but also its tributaries capable of being made navigable should be improved.

The businessmen of the Kiskiminetas and Conemaugh Rivers need water transportation to compete with the railroad service, which they say is driving industries from the valleys with high freight rates.

The War Department has shown none too much interest in the Kiskiminetas improvement project; but there is hope that its interest will increase, for it continues to study the subject and Maj. W. D. Styer, district engineer, told a delegation from the Kiskiminetas and Conemaugh valleys only last Monday that the department still maintained an open mind in regard to it.

County Park Losses

It May Not Yet Be Too Late to Recover the Money Due From Concessionaires

The County Commissioners are said to have decided several years ago that concessions to sell refreshments, rent bathing suits and the like in the county parks should be granted on the understanding that the concessionaires would pay the county 10 per cent of their gross receipts. But it develops that the most recent concessionaire, a relative of John J. Verona, Third Ward political leader, paid nothing last year.

It would be interesting to know who was responsible for the collection of the concessionaire's commission and why he failed to collect it.

The privilege is believed to be worth many thousands of dollars, and the taxpayers can ill afford to lose this money.

It may not yet be too late to recover the money. The effort to collect it is worth making.

The new County Commissioners have done a sensible thing in arranging to ask for bids for the concessions this year.

Interesting Appointment

Naming of an Intelligent Ex Convict to Prison Board May Be Productive of Good.

Gov. Pinchot did an interesting thing yesterday in appointing a former convict, Henry G. Brock, of Philadelphia, as a trustee of the Eastern Penitentiary.

Brock, to be sure, is far from an ordinary convict. He is a member of a prominent and wealthy family, and the crime for which he was sent to prison was not of the sort committed by professional criminals. He went to the penitentiary for killing three persons with an automobile while driving in a drunken condition.

He actually served a couple of years, and so is familiar through personal expetience with the thoughts and aspirations and requirements of prisoners. He should know better than other members of the board what is necessary for the moral betterment of convicts as well as for their discipline.

The best part of it is that he is intensely interested in the subject and has been working on it since his release from prison.

New Forbes Memorial

Erection of Tablet on the Blockhouse Grounds Should Stimulate Interest in Local History

Under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Historical Commission a tablet has been erected on the Blockhouse grounds commemorating the capture of Fort Duquesne by Gen. Forbes in 1758. It is the thirteenth of a series marking Forbes' march.

The new memorial is erected at an appropriate time, for it recalls an event with which George Washington was associated and should stimulate interest in the historical occurrences in this vicinity in which Washington played a part.

You will appreciate the Washington Bicentennial observance all the more if you familiarize yourself with the early history of Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania. The current issue of the National Geographic Magazine deals with the subject in an interesting way.

Floundering

In a signed editorial appearing in the Hearst newspapers of Sunday, January 3, William Randolph Hearst said in part:

"It is about time that the Democratic Party got back upon the high road of Democracy. It is about time that the American people got back upon the high road of Americanism.

"It was a sad day for the country and the people, a sad day for the Democracy when Champ Clark was defeated at the Democratic Convention at Baltimore in 1912.

"Surely, the Democratic Party and the public—all of us—CAN find guidance for the future in the record of the past."

Our Bankers Reckless In Adventures Abroad

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

THUS far America's adventure as a creditor nation has been far from uniformly satisfactory.

On long term private loans, numerous Latin American governments are in default, and other broken promises are threatened.

On the side of short term banking credits to Germany, the huge advances are frozen by the so-called standstill agreement.

New York has displaced London as the banking center of the world, and the question before the American people is whether to become elated over the fact.

Until its recent abandonment of the gold standard, London ruthlessly sacrificed the interests of home industry and labor to the exigencies of international finance.

It finally discovered that such economic internationalism led the country up a blind alley.

AMERICA should seek to avoid a repetition of Britain's financial blunders.

It should confine its export of capital to demonstrable surplus over and above the legitimate needs of American industry and labor. Unlike little England, America is so vast and so promising in long term economic possibilities that it can prudently employ at home most of the savings of its people and most of the credit resources of its banks.

Unfortunately, American commercial and investment bankers, in their first fling at international lending, were not actuated by this common sense standard.

The Department of Commerce recently estimated the long term private investments abroad at $15,000,000,000.

It has been demonstrated that this prodigal outpouring of the sinews of peace enabled foreign borrowers to build instruments of social progress which the lending bankers opposed at home as extravagant or socialistic.

This estimate of prodigal lending does not include the $10,000,000,000 which the United States Treasury advanced to the Allied powers during the war and after the Armistice, and for which we are cursed for seeking to collect in part.

EVEN more serious is the carelessness with which the banks of deposit here, which are tantamount to mints in our credit economy, lavishly poured colossal amounts of short term funds into Central Europe. Frequently the American banks were holding the bag to the extent of more than $500,000,000 in German acceptance credits.

It is now recognized that the lenders were ABSURDLY CARELESS in neglecting to get satisfactory statements of condition from foreign borrowing banks.

The very bankers who were TYRANTS at home with small businessmen, became SUCKERS when they roamed abroad and accommodated foreign banks.

It is a matter of conjecture how much will be salvaged from the frozen German acceptance credits.

Meantime, the bitter consequences of careless foreign lending serve to deepen depression and deflation at home, for banks, with potential huge foreign losses, are too cautious and timid in their present relations with their domestic customers to enable home business to proceed efficiently. The Wheeler subcommittee of the Gifford committee in a public statement urged the banks to take a more liberal attitude toward their honest, but hard-pressed, customers.

If the commercial bankers had not poured loans unwisely into questionable foreign situations, they would not be in a position which prompts belated caution toward their domestic customers at a time when the higher interests of the American people call for larger liberality and venturesomeness.

THE banks were doubtless within their legal rights in using loanable funds FOOLISHLY ABROAD.

The Federal Reserve Banks may have been technically correct in purchasing quantities of German acceptances, indorsed by American member banks,

BUT THE MEMBER BANKS, THE RESERVE BANKS AND THE SUPERVISING FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD DID A VAST DISSERVICE TO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

Instead of averting panics and keeping bank assets liquid, the Federal Reserve, which is regarded as the moral leader in American commercial banking, remained silent while American bankers indulged in RECKLESS ADVENTURE in high finance overseas.

The mistakes lengthen the depression, for they contribute to the deflationary decline of American bank deposits, which are the chief medium of exchange.

The vicious circle consists of refusal of credit to smaller American businessmen, who normally would be accommodated, because the banks are tied up with questionable foreign assets.

Fortunately, in spite of puerile banking, American banking reserves are still colossal. And the huge gold hoards provide the legitimate basis for a deliberate counter-deflationary credit expansion designed to promote job-creating American trade and industry.

LET THE BANKERS OF THE COUNTRY BEGIN TO RECOGNIZE THEIR RESPONSIBILITY FOR AIDING AMERICAN ECONOMIC RECOVERY, AND LET THEM TEMPER THEIR INTERNATIONALISM IN FINANCE BY GREATER REGARD FOR AMERICAN NEEDS AND REQUIREMENTS.

Marry-Go-Round

The Gigolo Racket

The gigolo business is a new "racket," which has become almost as popular as the beauty parlor business or the speakeasy business.

* * *

In Paris, a gigolo is a professional dancing man, who, for a money consideration, will light-foot it with stout dowagers and lone debutantes, at tea dances. But, in America, the gigolo has blossomed into 57 varieties—every one "just a little boysy trying to get along."

* * *

You probably have heard of only one type: the graceful, pretty-faced youth with the polished manners, who goes in for devotion in a Big Way to some wealthy dowager, still bent on clinging to her dancing days.

It requires ability and energy to make good in business or a profession. But all it takes to be a brilliant success as a gigolo is a suit of evening clothes, a dancing foot and a good line of soft soap.

* * *

Given these, and almost any young man "too proud to work" can crash his way into the limousine set, eat his way through a winter of teas and dinner parties, and get his cigaret and theater tickets free.

The modern debutante MUST have her flock of followers. She wants a stag-line, long enough to drape the drawing room wall—and a "spare" for every idle moment. And she doesn't care much whether they are just out of college, just out of a job or just out of jail, so long as they fit into the picture and LOOK the part.

But don't imagine that lonely widows and over-ripe ladies are the only supporters of the gigolo racket. It thrives on tired business women, bored wives, rich spinsters and ambitious debutantes. In short, on feminine VANITY!

Of course, lots of these male gold-diggers, party-boys and gate-crashers never even THINK of themselves as "gigolos." They probably regard themselves as "society men" or Great Lovers or gay dogs.

But a "gigolo" is any man who accepts the bounty of women—and there is no camouflaging that fact.

* * *

The man who marries for money, the languid youth who lets his smart business-girl wife hustle for the bacon while he gets his beauty sleep, and the playboy who pursues rich widows are all of a piece. Just gigolos!

* * *

In this land famed for its Indian fighters, cow-punchers, rough riders, strong HE-men and hard-boiled business men, the gigolo is as incongruous as a pink rose on a trench helmet.

* * *

And every mother's battle-hymn should be: "I did not raise my boy to be a gigolo!"

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The droop to usual Bowery squalor is more pronounced this winter than ever. I walked from Chatham Square to Cooper Union last evening as day slipped off into dusk. The indigo sweep of the overhead elevated accentuated the sullenness.

For the Bowery does sulk. And not without cause. Never articulate, it seems at the moment especially mute. Little groups, knotted on the sidewalk, stand as unmoving as the grotesque clothing dummies, which remain part of the pavement picture.

Through frosted hieroglyphics of hashhouse windows were the dejected, sprawling over pine-topped tables. Some with mouths agape, snoring. On the Bowery these days they buy a 15-cent meal and sit in a half stupor, like a python full of pigeons, until closing.

In the motley array appears more of youth than usual. Capped and woe-begone creatures with a several days' growth. They perch in doorways skewered like moulting sparrows on spikes. One called out: "Eh, Jack, a match!" I snapped a pocket lighter and held it forth but he forced me to walk over to him.

"That's service, buddy," he said. All laughed. A moocher came up for "just a jitney for a cuppa cawfee." I gave him a coin which he accepted without thanks. Indeed, I detected a grumble at the size as he walked off inspecting it.

In every block were those lurching outcasts fumbling about in a haze of the lethal drink of the section—"Bowerysmoke." It is hawked off the hip at 10 cents a swig. These are the human lees sifting slowly to the dregs. The submerged tenth!

Many are men, once of earth's high places, who had their Scotch and soda at exclusive clubs and "went the route"—through the brothels of Port Said and the "slop joints" of Alaska and finally the Bowery. Also a sprinkling of those amiably muddled harridans who talk to themselves.

After sundown cheerful little missions fill. Along benches in Hadley's Rescue Hall—John Hadley himself once a drunkard and thief who with regeneration consecrated life to his fellows—there sit rows of repentant roysterers in cow-like docility. They listen to the kindly gospelers and with boredom lift husky voices in "Washed in the Blood of the Lamb," in exchange for free coffee and a flop.

* * *

In a West Seventy second street hotel I formed lasting friendship with a man from Ohio, "saved" at the old McCauley Mission on Water street. His features are etched with the imprint of dissipation. Rising to the eastern managership of a successful enterprise, each night he went back to the Bowery to participate in the "experience" meetings at various missions. Like most men who had their bout with booze and tussle with tobacco, he had no tolerance for either. I never smoked in his presence. Otherwise he was one of the kindliest, most thoughtful souls I ever knew. His regeneration "took." He had led an upright life for 20 years.

* * *

On the old Evening Mail was a copy reader, a handsome figure of a man, who drifted into the Bowery Mission—Hadley's by the way—one stormy night on the verge of the horrors. At the conclusion he staggered to the mourner's bench at the call for sinners. His home was rehabilitated and for months he was a model of sobriety. Then one calamitous morning Robert E. MacAlarney, city editor, now a distinguished writer and editor, called me to his desk. "Get —— out for a walk before the managing editor comes in!" he whispered. Our desk mate was completely blotto. I went with him to a neighboring saloon where he punctuated sobbing over fall from grace by calling for more "whiskey straight." Later he lost his job and I never saw him again, but should his eyes fall on this I'd like to hear all is well.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"You don't write like a woman," says he, peevishly. "You haven't a feminine attitude."

What do you mean "write like a woman?"

Why should a woman write differently than a man?

Why should a woman think differently than a man?

Why shouldn't a woman be interested in the same things that interest a man?

Why shouldn't she know as much about her world as a man, and feel about it in the same way?

Why should we expect women to feel and express only pretty and pleasant things, and expect men to express powerful and passionate things?

If you come right down to cases, a woman actually has need to be more powerful than a man, and to think more clearly and forcefully.

FOR THE WOMAN BEARS THE RACE AND TRAINS THE RACE.

Men make things for the race, and men do things with the race; BUT ONLY AFTER WOMEN GET THE RACE READY.

Men make history, but women make men, particularly here in America, and history is only as great as the men who make it. Which, considering recent current events, isn't saying much.

PERHAPS IF WE EXPECTED MORE OUT OF WOMEN, WE'D GET MORE OUT OF MEN.

I suspect that one of the great troubles with the world today is that we expect females to be nice girls and sweet wives and dear old mothers, instead of expecting them to be regular, two-fisted human beings.

Whereupon, they put talcum powder on their baby boys instead of boxing gloves; and bye and bye, when those boys go to Congress, look what happens!

Well, if you insist that women shall stay at home and raise flowers, you must expect a lot of mignonette in the voters' list.

It should be considered as shameful for a woman to know nothing of her country's affairs—to be ignorant of "the seamy side of life"—as for a man.

There is absolutely no excuse in 1932 for a "feminine attitude." Brains have no sex. Backbones have no gender. If women demand equal rights they should have equal information and equal wallop to back up that information.

Why don't I write like a woman?

Because I am female only secondarily, as a man is male only secondarily.

Primarily, I am a human being, facing and dealing with the same conditions which affect a man. If I can't think and talk about those conditions as a man thinks and talks about them, then I've no business writing at all.

And that goes for all the rest of this equal rights world. This is no place for females who have gotta act like ladies.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

It is fine to be alert and wide awake and ready to grasp opportunity.

It is quite another thing to be "pushy" and aggressive in trying to get in places where you have not been invited.

Perhaps it is because you are so prone to ask yourself into things, that your name is not presented oftener when organizations are looking for members.

On the other hand, it is snobby to snub a person for showing interest in things which are not their affair to consider.

There are some folk who are always correcting the misspelled words or the mispronounced word, and doing it with such a superior air.

The lift of an eyebrow, the shrug of a shoulder, a thousand and one little snobby ways of expressing amazed disdain for the poor ignoramus who does not know any better.

All of which goes to show that very often manners are only skin deep.

It takes good breeding to hear, but not make it apparent, that there has been a mistake.

Why don't you try to assume the manners of a lady or a gentleman?

You may have the money of Croesus and the deference to your wishes that money can sometimes buy, but that does not make you a real gentlewoman or gentleman.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

House on a Hill

Only a little house on a hill,
Where all save the voice of the wind is still!
This is my wish—this house, set far
Up on the hillside and near to a star.
A star that will lend its silver light,
Aiding my candle-flame at night;
A star to greet me when twilight falls
Over my clearing's cedar-brake walls.

Only a little house, and cheap,
With God's own winds to sing me to sleep
And God's own star to lend me its light,
Signalling down to my candle bright.
Lonely, perhaps, some would call my choice,
Yet I am cheered by each songster's voice,
While God's love unfolds, as I sleep or wake,
Fencing me 'round like the cedar brake.
